NAZIS CLAIM WARSAW'S FALL, VICTORY OVER BRITISH FLEET

Assert Bombers Sink One Ship; Britain Denies It

Germany Says Bombers Attacked British Fleet, Destoyed Aircraft Carrier; London Admits Battle But Denies Casualties, Claims Planes Hit.

(By International News Service)

The first combat between warships and bombing planes since the new European war broke out was revealed in London and Berlin today—with diametrically opposed versions of the outcome released by the British and German admiralties.

The conflict occurred at some unspecified spot in the middle of the North sea when a fleet of German aircraft attacked part of the British flotilla, including a number of battleships, an aircraft carrier, a cruiser and several destroyers.

The Germans claimed that the aircraft carrier was sunk and one battleship struck several times by aerial bombs.

The British claim that no British ship was hit, that there had been no British casualties, and that one German plane had been forced down, its crew captured, and a second damaged.

Aircraft Carrier Sunk----Germany

BERLIN — (INS) — Overwhelming successes by German war planes in [illegible] warships in the North sea, including the alleged destruction of another British aircraft carrier, were claimed by the German high command today.

A communique issued by the German high command stated that in addition to the aircraft carrier being destroyed, one British battleship was struck several times in direct hits by German bombs.

"The German air force successfully attacked yesterday British naval forces, battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers in the middle of the North sea.

"One aircraft carrier was destroyed.

"One battleship was directly hit several times by heavy German bombs.

"Our air forces suffered no losses."

The communique also dealt with the situation in Poland prior to the announced capitulation of Warsaw. It read:

"In the east our troops are approaching the demarcation line agreed on with the Soviet Russian government."

No British Ship Hit---Britain

LONDON — (INS) — German claims of sweeping successes in a Nazi air raid on the British fleet in the North Sea yesterday were flatly denied today by Winston Churchill, First Lord of Admiralty.

On the contrary, Churchill said, not a single British ship was hit, while one German plane was shot down and another damaged.

"Twenty German aircraft," Churchill told the house of commons, "attacked a portion of the British fleet in the middle of the North Sea yesterday afternoon.

"There were no British casualties, but one German machine was shot down and another damaged.

"The British vessels comprised a squadron of capital ships, one aircraft carrier, one cruiser and a number of destroyers.

"One German aircraft came down nearby. Its crew of four was picked up by a destroyer and taken prisoner.

"No British ship was hit during the engagement."

The admiralty issued a statement identical with that of Churchill.

Has Warsaw Finally Surrendered to Germany's Blows?

The air view shown above is Warsaw before it underwent terrific bombardments by German bombing planes and artillery fire. The German high command in Berlin today claimed that the Polish capital had finally surrendered. The "surrender" had no official confirmation from Warsaw itself.

Poles Surrender Battered City, Berlin Reports

Germany Instructs General to Begin Negotiation With Polish Officials; Warsaw Radio Says 3,000 Killed In 24 Hours, City Burning.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(INS)—Polish authorities in Warsaw have asked the German forces besieging the city for a 24-hour armistice owing to threat of epidemics and lack of water, a Transcontinental Press agency dispatch from the Polish capital stated today. The report said that the Poles have not yet received a reply.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (UP) — The city of Warsaw—bombed and burned "into an unspeakable inferno"—was reported by Nazis to have offered to surrender, but an Exchange Telegraph dispatch said that at noon today defenders of the Polish capital were still fighting back.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—The German high command asserted today that the Polish commander at Warsaw had offered to surrender the city.

The commander-in-chief of the German army, the communique said, has designated Gen. Blaskowitz to conduct negotiations for Warsaw's surrender.

"Warsaw, which at the beginning of hostilities was considered an open town and consequently respected as such by German troops has now been turned into a fortress, old forts have been reconstructed and parts of the civilian population have been armed by orders of the Warsaw military commandant," the communique said.

The war communique said that German troops had captured the 41st Polish division and a cavalry brigade "between the German-Russian front east of Bilgoraj."

German air forces attacked and bombarded "military objectives in Modlinx," the old fortified town northwest of Warsaw, the communique said.

In regard to the western front, the announcement said:

"On the western front there were only skirmishes. The enemy is digging trenches along the entire front. Two French planes were shot down in an air battle over Frieburg and Sigmaringen."

The announcer declared "more than 3,000 civilians" had been killed in the past 24 hours.

Polish troops defending the capital were said to have repulsed all German land attacks.

(A German communique in Berlin declared, however, that Warsaw's defenders had offered to surrender and that fortresses north and south of the city had been captured by a new Nazi offensive opened early yesterday.)

STORM BREAKS LONG DROUGHT

Lightning Hits Home, School at Shenandoah; Subway, Streets Flooded.

A late summer drought that has gripped Richland county and central Ohio for nearly two months was broken early today by a deluge accompanied by hail and lightning which struck a home here and a schoolhouse at Shenandoah.

Starting shortly before midnight and continuing intermittently for more than six hours, the storm flooded the Park avenue east subway, a number of streets, while city officials also received reports of flooded basements in some sections of the city. Police said numerous manhole covers were unseated by overtaxed storm sewers.

A one-room school at Shenandoah was struck by lighting during the height of the storm. The bolt knocked several slate shingles

Britain Admits Bremen Might Have Reached Russian Port.

LONDON — (AP) — Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, today asserted in the house of commons that the mysteriously missing German liner Bremen "is believed to be in a north Russian port."

The $20,000,000 liner sailed from New York Aug. 30 only 36 hours before German troops started into Poland.

Since then no definite word of her whereabouts has been received, but there have been unconfirmed reports she had reached Murmansk, Societ Arctic port.

SEN. GLASS ILL

Veteran Lawmaker 'Unchanged' Today, Doctors Say.

WASHINGTON—(AP) — Condition of Sen. Carter Glass, 81, D., Va., seriously ill with bronchitis, was reported "unchanged" today.

Glass, a former secretary of the treasury in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, was said to have aggravated his condition by a trip to the senate Monday to take part in the neutrality fight in which he is supporting President Roosevelt's plea for repeal of the arms embargo.

Britain Hikes Taxes To An All-Time High

War To Take $1.40 of Every $4 Income From Average Englishman; Country May Yet Call For Huge Defense Loans.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Anticipating the staggering total outlay of almost $8,000,000,000 in the first year of war against Hitlerism, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon today announced sweeping new increases in taxation and made known plans for tremendous national defense loans to finance hostilities.

From now on, the income tax will be a minimum of $1.40 out of every $4.00 earned; the tax on liquor, beer and tobacco will be higher and sacrifices will be demanded all along the line to ensure that finance—"the fourth arm of defense"—does not collapse.

The new income tax will be the highest in the history of England—exceeding even that paid out during the most heavily-taxed years of the World war.

For the present financial year, the tax will be seven shillings to the pound instead of five. During the next financial year, the tax will be 7 shillings, six pence to the pound.

In his dry, legalistic monotone, the chancellor thus brought home to the house of commons the staggering cost of fulfilling Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's pledge that Naziism must be destroyed.

Arising to introduce his new war budget and explain in detail what new sacrifices will be expected of the average Englishman, Sir John began with a lengthy retrospect of the financial situation since his last budget and expounded upon the burdens of wartime.

"I cannot guarantee," he said, "that the 500,000,000 pounds sterling ($2,000,000,000) credit voted will be sufficient to cover all requirements to the 31st of March.

"We shall be facing now in this financial year a total outlay of nearly 2,000 million sterling ($8,000,000,000).

To aid in meeting this overwhelming total, Sir John said, "the income tax will be substantially increased."

"If the financial effect of the war is not promptly faced and boldly handled," Sir John said, "our power to carry through will be gravely weakened."

The chancellor declared it was impossible to raise the entire war expenditure from taxation and foreshadowed national defense loans on a tremendous scale.

5 INJURED IN 4 ACCIDENTS HERE

Autoist Most Seriously Hurt as Car Hits Freight Truck Parked on Route 42.

(Picture on Page 3)

Five Mansfielders were injured, one seriously, in four accidents reported in and near the city yesterday and early today.

Confined to General hospital and most seriously hurt was Marlon Furry, 21, of 202 Gerke avenue, whose car struck a parked C. C. C. freight truck at 2 a. m. today on the new route 42 cut-off, three miles north of Mansfield.

Furry suffered a fractured left leg, a fracture of the left collarbone and multiple lacerations of the face and head, hospital attendants reported. His condition was reported as "fair" at noon.

The truck, driven by Donald A. Hess of Akron, had stopped on the highway when it ran out of gasoline, employes of the Park garage who towed the wrecked car to Mansfield, said.

Furry was saved from burning to death by Hess, who removed him from the wreckage when a fire started in the motor, believed

Dollar Days Are 3-Day Feature of Fall Value Event

One of the most important merchandising events of the retail business calendar in Mansfield is Fall Dollar days which are being held this year in connection with Fall Value week, and which will be observed on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

While merchants are specializing in big dollar values, they will also offer unusual prices in all types of merchandise.

Dollar Days are a typically American institution and give merchants a twice a year opportunity for a real "get together" with customers, so that both parties are mutually benefited.

The 47 stores taking part in Fall Value week are also cooperating on Dollar Days. These merchants are designated by yellow banners in their display windows, and most of them have hobby collection displays.

The second annual Hobby show, sponsored by the Buckeye Hobby club of Mansfield and the Retail Merchants Association, was held in conjunction with Fall Value week and more than 50 attractive and unique collections will be found in the down town district. The exhibits will remain in store windows through Monday.

FRONT: Newsmen at Nazis West Wall; Tell What They Saw

By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WITH THE GERMAN WESTERN FRONT ARMY—More than 1,000,000 German troops awaited confidently today, in the West Wall line of fortifications opposite France, an expected attack by the French and British armies.

Their morale seemed good, and a two-day visit which I and four other foreign correspondents made of a 200-mile stretch of the wall indicated that, if Germany's new defenses are not impregnable they will take a frightful toll of life from any attacking army.

The defenses are more than 30 miles deep at points; they include, according to German officers, thousands of anti-aircraft batteries, tens of thousands of blockhouses, some of which might hold out for weeks even if surrounded, and hundreds of thousands of land mines buried to trap invading troops.

On this first visit by foreign newspaper men to the German side of the western front, accompanying general staff officers an-

Siegfried Line Cracked Open In Places by French Artillery Fire

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—French artillery was reported today to have wiped out portions of the German Siegfried line between Merzig and Saarbruecken as the entire western front blazed with heavy cannonading.

Dispatches said the Germans had answered the bombardment with an intense counterfire on French advance positions in the Saar and Paltinate areas to protect Nazi troops working feverishly to rebuild shattered blockhouses.

A communique issued this morning by the general staff made no reference to this reported success, and said the night had been "calm."

The communique made mention, however, of "enemy artillery fire on our rear lines in the region of Wissembourg."

The Merzig-Saarbruecken sector extends along a 25-mile

WASHINGTON—Repeal Plan Supporters Claim 56 Votes

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Supporters of the administration's neutrality bill to repeal the arms embargo and bar American ships from carrying any cargoes to belligerents claimed 56 senate votes today and began talking of a quick victory.

One member of the group said the revised bill, to be considered by the entire senate foreign relations committee tomorrow, had stolen much of the opposition's thunder by its "cash, credit and carry" provision.

Opponents prepared to confine their fight primarily to the embargo issue. Senator Johnson (R., Cal.) said it was going to be a "long scrap" and "we expect to win."

The opposition leaders claimed at least 35 votes, and said they hoped to swing more to their side during the senate debate. A senate majority is 49.

Advocates of repeal were delighted by the announcement that Alfred E. Smith, who has taken issue with Roosevelt domestic policies, would deliver a radio speech in support of the president's neutrality program. Smith's address will be given Sunday at 7 p. m. EST, over a CBS hook-up.

422 to 132---That's Score In Neutrality Poll to Date

Despite daily fluctuations in the votes, the majority of News-Journal readers remain in favor of the present neutrality law, for today's total tally shows more than three out of every four adult readers wanting the arms embargo retained.

The News-Journal poll, which got under way last Saturday, has brought in a total of 554 volunteer votes, of which 422 are in favor of the present neutrality law, while 132 are in favor of the president's plan to sell to the nations at war on a cash-and-carry basis.

Today's ballots brought in an additional 164 votes, of which 118 were for the neutrality law and 46 were for lifting the embargo.

In order to vote in The News-Journal poll it is only necessary to mark the ballott, which is published today on page 11, and send it to the Neutrality Editor of The News-Journal.

Death from a heart attack overtook the noted writer and radio commentator Sunday at his farm near Stroudsburg, Pa., just as he was preparing to fill an assignment to cover the second World war in Europe for the Hearst newspapers.

MOSCOW: Nazi Envoy Arrives; New Military Pact Near, Belief

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(AP)—Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop arrived today to participate in a series of conferences expected to affect eastern Europe from the Baltic to the Dardanelles.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany arrived today for talks with the Soviet government amid unconfirmed reports a Soviet-German military pact was under consideration.

Three planes bearing the German delegation landed at 5:45 p. m. (9:45 a. m. EST) from Berlin to be greeted by a brass band and an honor guard, touches that were missing when Von Ribbentrop arrived Aug. 23 to sign the Soviet-German non-aggression pact.

Vladimir Potemkin, vice commissar of foreign affairs, headed Soviet officials welcoming the Nazi party.

Von Ribbentrop smiled broadly as he emerged from the plane to exchange "Heil Hitler" greetings and handshakes with the staff of the German embassy.

The airport was decorated with inter-twined Soviet and Nazi flags.

Italian Ambassador Augusto Rosso was the only foreign diplomat who appeared for the welcome.

The coming of Germany's foreign minister, coupled with the presence in Moscow of the Turkish foreign minister caused diplomatic circles to speculate on pos-

Police Salesmen Start Ticket Drive For Annual Dance

Those bulges in the pockets of Mansfield police today weren't from carrying an extra supply of traffic tags. They were tickets for the annual Police Ball set for Oct. 16 at the Coliseum.

It's the event of the year as far as police are concerned and they have promised a "bigger and better" dance this fall.

In all they have had 5,000 tickets printed and today they were putting forth their best salesmanship.

Arrangements have been made for the return of Ace Brigode and his band which played at last year's event. The orchestra heard regularly over the radio networks is now playing in Chicago.

Sponsored by the Police Recreation club, the ball is in charge of a committee comprised of Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Capt. Jesse Schwab, Detective Oscar Krupp and Patrolmen George Yoakum and Eugene Hartnett.

Proceeds are used to purchase police equipment and the annual supply of ammunition of target practice.

SMARTEST STYLES ON HAND AS STORES MARK FALL VALUE WEEK

Have you been wanting a new fall outfit?

Do you feel as if you had just stepped out of Noah's Ark in that hat you saved from last season? Are your skirts all too narrow, and your costume jewelry out of fashion?

Well this is the week for you to solve all your fashion problems, for New York's smartest garments, and the newest Parisian ideas are on hand for Fall Value Week, an annual event which will be climaxed with three days of savings in Mansfield stores, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

When you go forth on a shopping spree, of course you'll want to know the newest fashions to be looking for, so here's a few hints about the 1939 trends for autumn.

Back fullness counts for everything. The bustle dominates the picture, and you might just as well give in and buy a new foundation because the nipped-in waistline is definitely "in." Simpler lines and smoother shoulders are the sleeve news, and you can choose nearly any fabric you like and be fashionable. Combinations of silk and satin or satin and wool give a pleasing contrast in some of the latest models.

Yes, black leads the fashion parade. But doesn't it always? The most lush new shades, however, answer to such names as bluegrass and comet blue, tokay, balsam, Lincoln green. Brown, the fashion experts say is second choice. Muted or subtle high shades will grab a share of the spotlight, too.

The trend is toward "dressy" fashions, and the sports clothes favored by collegians and young business women have a style all their own this season. Mixing and matching in sweaters, blouses, skirts and jackets is still tops.

All in all it looks like a season of elegance and dainty detail—fuller skirts, tiny waists, high crown hats, veils, and loads of bright jewelry offer the way of least resistance to a new costume, or three or four.

CHAPTER XV

"Not a chance, sir. I've lived here many years, and I know all about the doors and windows, sir That I do But Mr. Madison had a mortal fear of burglars. He locked himself in his room. So I clumb the ladder, sir. And when I see him lyin' so quiet like in his bed, at ha'past eight, I was sure somethin' was the matter with him. I only thought he was sick or the like o' that, but never before had he left his door locked against his morning coffee Well, as there was no other way in, I cut a hole in the winder, near the fastening, and I reached in and turned the catch"

"What did you cut the window with? Your jackknife?"

"No, sir, a glass-cutter, and things."

"How is it you were so spry getting in the window?"

Elkanah was unmoved by Sutton's insinuation. He gazed at him, calmly, and said. "Why, I just know that since Mr Madison's hall door was locked, there was no other way to get in his room, 'cept through a winder, which I done"

"Then what did you do, when you got inside?"

"I looked at him good, and I saw he was dead."

"Did you touch him?"

"I laid my hand on his head, and it was icy cold."

"Oh, then I told my wife to tell Miss Madison, and she would give orders."

"Elkanah, you say that nobody could get into Mr Madison's room by any doors? It had to be by breaking a window?"

"I do say so, sir."

"Then how did the murderer get in?"

"There's no answer to that, sir, except that it was a miracle"

"Are the outside doors to the house all locked at night?"

"Tight as a drum, sir. I look after that myself. Wilkins, he goes around and locks everything, doors and winders, but I traipse after him, making sure he done it all proper"

"You did this last night?"

"I sure did. Mr. Madison was the last one up, and after he went up, I flew around, me and Wilkins, and locked everything that would lock"

"Then it would be difficult for anyone to get into the house at all?"

"Unpossible, sir. Some of the house is air-conditioned and some ain't, Mr. Madison, he wouldn't have it in his room, he liked his air ripened on the trees"

"Then, it would be more difficult for a marauder from outside to get into Mr. Madison's room, than for some one who lives in the house?"

"If you put it that way, sir. The outsider would have to bust an outside door down, and then bust into Mr. Madison's bedroom; the one who lives in the house, would only need to break in Mr Madison's bedroom door."

"And no doors were forced open?"

Elkanah looked up suddenly, as if about to resent the idle question, but he said only, "If they had been 'twould have been reported, sir."

Sutton turned to his listeners "As you can see for yourselves," he said, "the conditions are very mysterious. We have an unenterable house and an unenterable room. Yet someone got into that room and killed its occupant while he slept. This intruder must have been one already in the house, or some one who managed to get inside. I am not questioning the veracity of this witness, but mistakes do occur at most unexpected times and places, and we must agree it is possible that a door or window might have escaped the attention of these two trusty attendants. But even so, the marauder would have had to get into the room of Mr. Madison, so that I may say, there is little to choose between the probability of an outsider and one who slept under this roof."

An uneasy rustling and moving about proved the audience ill-pleased at this statement, Craig spoke:

"I cannot think, Mr. Sutton, that you are imagining my uncle's murder could be the deed of any of us in the family, as such an implication is unthinkable to any one. And if you are suggesting the servants, I want to put in a word for them. They are a trustworthy lot, most of them having been here for years and years. Not one of them has ever had a thought of disloyalty or a feeling of rancor toward any member of the family. This I can swear to, and I know, my Aunt, Miss Madison, will corroborate my words"

"I do," Cornelia said; "It is impossible to suspect the servants, and no one in his senses could imagine any member of the family harboring an evil thought against Harley Madison, who loved and cared for us all. It seems to me a maniac must be responsible for our tragedy, and one who was diabolically clever enough to manage a way to get into the house."

Fleming Stone volunteered a question.

"Miss Madison, are you sure there is no secret passage to your brother's room?"

"I am positive, Mr. Stone, that there is not. My father built this house, and my brother has added many rooms to it. We are all interested in architecture. Craig is making it his life work, and I always followed my brother's suggestions about this house, and sometimes improved upon them. We worked together in all ways. So you see, if he had added any such feature as a secret panel, I should have known of it."

"No trap door, or some such ordinary appliance?"

"No," Cornelia said.

"I'm sure, too," Craig said. "Of course, studying the subject I naturally have an interest in the plans of my own home, and I have the plans of this house, both with and without additions, so I may say I know every inch of it by heart."

"Could Mr. Madison have given a key to the house to some friend of his, in connection with their village plans?"

"No," said Everett Ames, who had returned to listen to the inquiry. "Had he done such a thing, I should have known of it. I was not only Mr. Madison's confidential secretary, but he depended on me to remember things for him, to remind him of engagements and to see to it that he kept his promises and carried out his plans. This does not mean that Mr. Madison's mind was anything but alert and keen as ever. But it saved him care and bother for me to jog his memory now and then. He was a remarkable man. His intellect was of the finest, his understanding was limitless, and his judgment always wise and sound. But he was in rather hot water with these village men, and yet, it all came about, because of their ingratitude to their great benefactor, and because of petty jealousies and bickerings among themselves. These things were bad enough, but of late, they have shown ill-feeling toward Mr Madison, and have even expressed threats against him That is why I think Mr. Madison's death lies at the hands of one of these belligerent minded men."

"It may be so," Sutton declared, "for, granting the evil-minded man from the village got into the house, in some way, he still had to enter the bedroom, which puts his case level with that of an inmate of the house. Could it be that Mr. Madison gave this person a key to the house door, and also a key to his bedroom?"

Cornelia looked both offended and scornful.

"It is absurd to imagine any such doings on the part of my brother," she said. "Harley was one of the most conventional of men. We sometimes thought him too formal. He would never receive a caller in his bedrooms, and wearing pajamas! He was not that sort of man. If he had given a key to some village man, and the man had come here, Harley would have received him downstairs, with decorum and courtesy."

"That's all true," Tom Sheldon put in "Uncle was not at all eccentric. Nor was he a man who would give a key to his house to anybody on earth except his own family."

"I surmised that," Sutton said, "and I am glad to have it in words. But somebody did get in his room, and did come away again, leaving the room locked, with an old-fashioned key. Is there a duplicate key?"

RECORD BILLING

City to Send Out $52,000 in Sewer, Water Statements.

Approximately 8,700 sewer rental bills will be placed in the mails Friday along with the last half of 1939 water bills for homes on the west side of Main street. The deadline for payments is Oct. 15.

Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments, said the billing representing the largest in the history of the water department totals $52,000.

Of this amount $38,000 is in water statements while sewer rental bills total $13,500. This is $2,000 greater than the previous high billing in April, 1938.

The rise in the number of accounts and the billing was attributed by Lingafelter to the large scale residential building program that has been under way here during the past two years.

Ohio State Packs Beef and Backs, Needs Speed

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE one-sided drubbing suffered last Saturday is not the worst defeat ever absorbed by Mansfield high in a game with Massillon.

'Way back in 1912, the Tygers, then known as the "Big Red," we believe, were beaten by Massillon by an 85 to 0 score.

In that same year, Mansfield was handed whippings of 73 to 0 and 99 to 6 by Akron Central, and Fostoria added to the school's embarrassment by whipping the home town boys, 74 to 0.

The reason you haven't been seeing Jimmy Lawrence's name in the Chicago Cardinal lineup is because he has been sold to the Washington Redskins, where he has joined an old Texas Christian teammate, Sammy Baugh. Lawrence is the ex-Tiffin Mudhens' pilot, you remember.

ATTENTION, BACKS! The sage of Ann Arbor, Fielding Yost, has always said: "The line gains the ground and the backs carry the ball."

Tom Meany says: "Jim Crowley has called out the Fordham football team . . . that's one Polish Corridor that Hitler won't get."

HUNGRY LADS

ONE day's supply of food for the big, hungry lads on the Ohio State squad's training table include 60 loaves of bread, 70 pounds of meat, 12 dozen fresh eggs, 40 gallons of milk, nine pounds of butter, four gallons of coffee, seven boxes of cereal, one gallon of cream, 17 gallons of orangeade, 100 pounds of potatoes, eight dozen rolls, 15 heads of lettuce, one half bushel of tomatoes and three quarts of mayonnaise.

Marquette's opponents this year year will think they're right in the thick of the war. Defensive signals will not be given by numbers, but by such commands as "England! France! Germany!, etc.

RAVE NOTICE

QUOTING today's Ohio State Journal: "A young Mansfield halfback, Sopohomore John Hallabrin, finally got a chance to sell his merchandise, and a better auctioneer would be hard to find. The elusive Hallabrin looked like a cross between a torpedo and Johnny Rabb at his best. He scored the first two A squad touchdowns on terrific line smashes from 6 to 9-yard lines, both times after he had wriggled free of two and three potential tacklers, and had outrun the secondary. Every time he carried the ball, at least three or four yards resulted and quite a lot of those yards were left trailing through just plain plowing after the stop sign had been hung out." Nice going, Johnny.

Everybody seems to think that Frankie Frisch, who is slated for a managerial job next year, will go to Pittsburgh.

Here is the way a writer sizes up the Tennessee football team: Line by Maginot, hips by Sally Rand, facial expressions by Vic McLaglen, passes by Annie Oakley, muscles by Charles Atlas, rushes by Theta Psi, blocks by Bill Borah, words and music on the team's chances sung by Major Bob Neyland by special permission of copyright owners, the Amalgamated Weeping Towel Manufacturers Association.

College football is big business. Texas A. & M. coaches have been told they can start hunting for new jobs if they don't win the Southwest conference title this year.

EVEN WITH FOES

SINCE 1885, University of Cincinnati football teams have scored 4,462 points. Their opponents have scored exactly the same number in 53 seasons of play.

Ernie Lombardie, Cincinnati receiver, regards 1933 as the peak of his career. He stole two bases that year.

The reason the Mansfield numerals failed to jibe with those in the Massillon program Saturday was because the figures were taken from the new blue jerseys. The Tygers wore their black ensemble against Massillon as the new blue jerseys failed to hold up. They have been shipped back to the factory.

San Francisco has a football player who is a first-year man, but he's a freshman, junior and senior. His name is Walter Senior, jr.

RETURNS TO ACTION

LOS ANGELES — (NS) — Helen Wills Moody, seven times winner of the Wimbledon women's singles title, came out of her long retirement today to appear in the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament. The former champion will pair up with Adrian Quist, the Australian star, in a mixed doubles match against Dorothy Arnold and Drago Mitic.

Bucks Blessed With Material

Lighter Linemen May Give State Faster Squad; 28 Fight for Four Backfield Posts.

By WALTER L. JOHNS, Central Press Sports Editor.

HEAD COACH FRANCIS A. SCHMIDT of Ohio State is no butcher.

Despite his experience with the Arkansas Porkers back in 1922-28, Schmidt lays no claim to being a cleaver champion.

From 13,269 pounds of beef, Schmidt has to carve out a Big Ten football team of approximately 2,000 pounds. It'll take a butcher to do it.

Looking at the Ohio State roster, we find no less than 70 huskies seeking 11 places on a football team. Schmidt thus will have to go through six teams and come up with one.

Potentially, the Buckeyes are the strongest club in the loop. But so they have been tagged in other years, and never have quite come up to championship finesse, although the Columbus, O., boys did share the Big Ten title with Minnesota in 1935, their first such showing in 15 years.

The tricky pass plays that Schmidt brought up from the southwest require a speedy team to execute them. Speed was lacking last year, but the Buck coach thinks perhaps he can find it among his squadmen this season.

As for backfield material, the Buck mentor has no less than 28 men seeking four regular varsity posts.

All told, 21 lettermen, including seven backs, returned this year.

Coach Schmidt's varsity or first team could read like this: Ross Bartschy, 185, of Orrville, and Esco Sarkkinen, 192, of Fairport at the ends; Vic Marino, 187, of Youngstown, and Stu Whitehead, 192, of Columbus, at the guards; Jim Daniell, 210, of Mt. Lebanon, Pa., and Charlie Maag, 210, of Sandusky, at the tackles; Capt. Steve Andrako, 189, of Trinway, at center; Don Scott, 208, of Canton, at quarter; Johnny Rabb, 183, of Akron, and Frank Zadworney, 195, of Cleveland, at the halves, and Jim Langhurst, 191, of Willard, at fullback.

Of this group, only Daniell is a sophomore. Rabb, the great back of 1937 and principal ground gainer, was out last year with an injury. His return is expected to give the Bucks a real scoring threat this season.

Among the wing candidates are Frank Clair, 200, of Hamilton, who earned his letter last year, and Charley Anderson, 187, Massillon. The latter is regarded strongly enough to earn consideration for a starting spot.

Maag was the center last year, but will play tackle this year. Capt. Andrako, who was football captain in high school, is a spirited senior in the College of Commerce and considered ideal for leader and lineman.

For weighty tackles, Schmidt could use Harvey Bolser, 224 pounds, of Lockland, a letter winner last year and Jerome Grundies, 228, of Cleveland, also a letterman in 1938.

Frank Smith, 204, of Columbus, and Jerry Spears, 209, also a capital city youth, are veteran guard replacements. Each was a letterman last year.

Most all the backs can run, kick and pass. Scott, a first-year fullback last season, has been shifted to quarter. He will alternate with Jim Sexton, of Middletown, a fine passer and runner. A soph, Jack Graf of Columbus, is said to look very good as No. 3 quarter.

At the halves, Rabb and Jim Strasbaugh will alternate at the left side with Zadworney and Howard Wedebrook at the right. Wedebrook is a fine punter. For fullbacks, Schmidt can use Langhurst and Tom Welbaum, 168-pounder of Akron.

Three very promising looking backs are Dick Fisher, 185, of Columbiana, Tom Kinkade of Toronto and Johnny Hallabrin of Mansfield.

The schedule this year embraces six Big Ten games and two newcomers, Missouri and Cornell, both played at Columbus and both met for the first time.

Langhurst's Injury Gives Ex-Tyger Chance to Strut

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A temporary injury to Jim Langhurst, leading Big Ten scorer as a sophomore last fall, disclosed new fullbacking power today for the Ohio State football team this fall. Langhurst was on the sidelines for a few days with an infected leg and his absence gave Johnny Rabb, a veteran, and John Hallabrin, a sophomore rookie from Mansfield, a chance to show their stuff.

After a disappointing start this fall, Rabb displayed his old jarring speed thrusts into the line in yesterday's scrimmage while Hallabrin ripped off several nice gains and tallied two touchdowns during a 60-minute scrimmage. Dr. Walter Duffee, team physician, said Langhurst's injury was not serious and that he would be back for action before Saturday.

Reds One Game Short of National Flag

Three Leagues Open; LeMunyon Sets Pace

Mansfield Tire, Transportation, Mixed Doubles Circuits Launch Bowling Seasons.

THE Mansfield Tire and Rubber company bowling league season got under way at the Meder Recreation alleys last night with Tire Room No. 1 setting the scoring pace with 2499 pins. Curing No. 1 was next high with 2490. Ray Shively of Maintenance set the individual pace with 561.

The Mixed Doubles league, which also opened last night, was led by Fred McKinley, 599, and his partner, Lillian Marks, with a 1064 total. Harold LeMunyon produced a 645 to lead the male keglers, and Mrs. Sophia Meder hit 501 to pace the feminine stars.

Brannon of the CCC Highway, with a 547, and the Globe Steel, with 2290, were high in the Transportation league, the third league to launch its season last night.

McKechnie Picks on Bucky Walters to Clinch Pennant In Today's Game In Cincinnati.

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI—(AP)—With the end of the season swirling up like the crack of doom, the Cincinnati Reds and their shadows, the St. Louis Cardinals, try again today to put the clutch on each other in a game which can bring Cincinnati its first National league pennant since the Olympian days of Pat Moran.

It isn't like yesterday, when the twin bill gave each team the chance, for unless today's game winds up another one of those ties in favor of the sunset, the Reds either have the flag spiked to the mast for the first time in 20 years, or the Cards are a game closer to the top.

Bucky Walters, the tall fellow whose formative years were spent on third base and who now owns Cincinnati and its metropolitan district, and Fiddler Bill McGee are the pitchers. Bucky, in the course of his 27 wins this year, has put the old hex on the Cardinals four times and Manager Bill McKechnie is depending on his long right arm for the convincer today.

Bucky is pitching today as a result of some smart maneuvering by Deacon Bill, who is nobody's fool, in yesterday's double-header. Bill said to Gene Thompson, the doughty freshman, "Gene, can you do it?" Gene said yes, and despite six walks and nine hits by the high-compression Cards, the Reds had the opening game that gave them the starting edge by a score of 3 to 1.

Thus, McKechnie could take a chance on Lee Grissom, who does and then doesn't, for the nightcap and give hard-working Bucky, who pitched and won a full game only Saturday, another day to rest, as well as throw his ace, Paul Derringer, at the Cards tomorrow. As it developed, Lee didn't click and the ball game soon was over. Morton Cooper kept the Reds under a tent all the way and the final was 6 to 0.

Just the same, with but four games left to 1939 after today, the Cards have a steep mountain to climb if they are to take the flag in the face of the Reds' 3½ game lead.

It was Billy Myers' ninth homer of the year that made the difference in the opener. After Ernie Lombardi had astonished the Card outfield by lining a double to—of all places—right to open the second inning, Harry Craft singled him to third and both stood still while Wally Berger popped to Jimmy Brown at short. Then Billy caught the first ball pitched to him and it had whiskers on it. It went on a low curve to the top of the left field wall and while Ducky Medwick scratched the air frantically, it bounced over into the alley.

You couldn't have heard a two-ton bomb explode in that park full of 34,194 screamers.

Grissom, who needs a good start to win, might have done better in the nightcap if Brown's curly roller down third base line had gone foul. Bill Werber pranced alongside the ball for ten feet, having no chance to throw to first anyway, but it went to bed against the bag. That was the cue for the explosion and before Red Barrett, just back from Indianapolis, restored law and order, four runs were in on six hits.

* * *

Cooper gave the Reds four hits, one a lucky double by Willard Hershberger and the other Wally Berger's first triple of the year, but the Redleg supporting cast couldn't produce.

DIES AT GAME

CINCINNATI —(NS)— Preparing to enter Crosley field to witness a doubleheader between the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals, James Gabriel, 74, Seymour, Ind., dropped dead of a heart attack, authorities reported today. Gabriel was a retired railroad engineer.

Injuries Hold Two On Bench

Lantz, Logan to Be Out of Action When Tygers Invade Cambridge Saturday.

TWO Mansfield high halfbacks will be on the sidelines next Saturday when the Tygers invade Cambridge, Coach Paul Snyder announced yesterday after sending his squad through a stiff fundamental drill.

The recurrence of an old arm injury will keep Blocking Back Bob Lantz out of the game, and Joe Logan, who suffered a sprained ankle early in the Massillon tilt last Saturday, will also be unable to play, Snyder said.

Harold Williams, Mansfield lineman, who did not get into last week's game because of an arm injury, is expected to remain out of the lineup for at least another week.

Snyder stressed improvement in blocking and running on the squad in the second day's drill this week.

"TOUCHDOWN TWINS" MAY TROUBLE RAMS.

COACH AL FENDRICK and his assistants at Madison high school are convinced that the Rams face a tough assignment on the Madison field, Friday night.

Crestline, their next foe, proved its mettle last week when it trimmed Galion, 20 to 7, and the Madison coaches are pushing the Rams in practice this week in preparation for the tilt.

The visiting Onondagas will show Mansfield fans two of the outstanding backs in this section Friday. They are Phil Ganni and Bob Frye, who have scored 51 of the 58 points accumulated by Coach Merle Hutson's men in two games.

Frye leads the individual scoring figures in this section with 32 points, and Ganni is tied for sixth place with 19. Shaw of Marion is second with 30. The leading scorers follow:

Speed Record Likely Sunday

Drivers to Bring Fast Cars to Fairground.

Speeds upward to 75 miles per hour may be established in Sunday's dirt track auto races, officials of the Ohio Automobile Racing association said this morning after viewing the half-mile oval at Richland county fairground.

"Fair board officials have kept the track in good shape," association heads announced, "and the straightaway is long enough to permit the boys to let her out."

"With ideal conditions, drivers should be just about able to hit top speed in time trials."

Top speed for the two-ton jobs entered in the race Sunday is 90 to 115 miles per hour, which, on any kind of surface is plenty fast. And if the drivers can ride out the fairground turns, new Ohio dirt track records for a half mile course may be set Sunday.

While fair board members and race sponsors have taken every precaution to eliminate wrecks on the turns, there's not much they can do with the fearless way the boys gun into the turn because—they're riding with their eyes on a crack at the 500-mile classic at Indianapolis.

Time trials start Sunday at 11 o'clock, while the 25 lap finale, in which the nine fastest qualifying cars start, is scheduled to get under way at 2:30. In all there will be six events with time trials, sprints and consolation races.

A couple of Johnnies, Allen and Rigney, were nominated for mound duty in the afternoon game. The second half of the doubleheader will be played tonight, with Bob Feller due to oppose Southpaw Edgar Smith.

Here's Reason Second Game Was Not Aired:

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The National Broadcasting company said today the Cincinnati Reds had withdrawn permission for the chain to broadcast the remaining games of the Reds' series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds acted at the request "of major league baseball officials," the company said. The cancellation order was received after the company had broadcast the first game of the doubleheader yesterday.

BUD PARMELEE BLANKS ROCHESTER IN OPENER

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Continued cool weather, which held attendance down to 6,000 for the opener, was promised today for the second game of the Little World series. With the fans shivering in their topcoats and swinging hot drinks last night, the American Association's Louisville Colonels took the lead in the best-of-seven series with a 7-0 shutout over the International League's Rochester Red Wings.

Leroy Parmelee threw nine goose-eggs at the Wings, allowing but four hits and facing but 28 men as the Colonels pulled three fast double plays. The Association team drove Mike Ryba to the showers with a five-run burst in the ninth.

THEATERS

GARBO'S romantic comedy is about ready for general release and will go out under its original title of "Ninotchka" . . . Remember that thrilling supersleuth of the paper-backs—Nick Carter? Walter Pidgeon will play the character on the screen . . . Paramount is said to be on its tin ear because of its smallest star. Little Carolyn Lee Copp, on whom Mansfield has a partial claim, is an absolute knockout in her picture "Honeymoon in Bali," and they'd like to sign her for five years but Papa and Mamma Copp won't hear to it . . . The ancient tugboat, Narcissus, was brought out of drydock recently for its first workout since Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery used it in "Tugboat Annie." Strangely enough, it's for another Beery picture—"Thunder Afloat."

Super Detective.

Out of the pages of Sir Conan Doyle's novels comes Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson to solve one of the crimes of the century in "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes", Madison theater attraction today and tomorrow. The master detective meets his arch enemy and the result is pulse quickening. Basil Rathbone is seen as the detective, Nigel Bruce as Watson and June Lang and Alan Marshall carry the romantic interest. The theater is also showing "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew", with Edith Fellows.

All In The Viewpoint.

For the women who can take it, "The Women" is a howling takeoff on their doings, but the scene that will be remembered longest are those in the reducing salon where Rosalind Russell combines her daily dozen with tearing down her friends' reputations. Several seasons ago Miss Russell established herself as a fine dramatic actress with her portrayal of the neurotic wife in "Craig's Wife", but in "The Women" she makes claim to being one of the screen's best comedians. This film version of Clare Boothe's famous stage play remains at the Ohio through tomorrow.

Fruit Growers Feud.

Some of the problems and feuds between the fruit growers of California, which are touched on in "Grapes of Wrath", provide the theme for "Smuggled Cargo", which the Park presents the last half of the week, starting tomorrow. Members of the Fruit Growers association face bankruptcy as the result of early frosts and low prices, and their problems are complicated by personal feuds. Rochelle Hudson, Ralph Morgan, Barry McKay and George Barbier are in the cast. "The President's Mystery" is the second film.

Radio Reporter.

John Howard and Gail Patrick are teamed in "Grand Judy Secrets", at the Ritz. Howard plays a reporter who is also a short-wave radio "ham", and who uses his knowledge of short-wave radio to filch secrets from a Grand Jury room where an investigation of a policy game is under way. He gets himself into a mess of trouble with authorities, his paper and his girl, not to mention the racket men. The second feature is "Good Bye, Mr. Chips" with Robert Donat and Greer Garson.

Oberon and Cooper Teamed.

A spoiled society darling meets a handsome and slightly bashful cowhand from the open range in "The Cowboy and The Lady", one of Goldwyn's big features of last season. Merle Oberon is the girl and Gary Cooper the cowboy who builds his "dream house" on the range. Patsy Kelly, Mabel Todd and Walter Brennan are featured. The Majestic offers this Western romance through Thursday, with "Calling Dr. Kildare" as a second attraction.

PAM—"Fight!" By A. W. Brewerton

PAM'S DREAD THAT SHE MIGHT BE DISCOVERED HAS QUICKLY CHANGED NOW TO FEAR THAT SHE WILL NOT BE!
I MUST NOT FAINT! — I MUST NOT FAINT!! — IF I LOSE CONSCIOUSNESS, I'LL SURELY SUFFOCATE!
BY PLACING HER FACE CLOSE TO A CRACK OF THE DOOR, SHE COULD DRAW IN FRESH AIR FROM OUTSIDE! — THIS REVIVED HER CONSIDERABLY!
9-27
SHOW WHAT YOU'RE MADE OF, NOW, PAMELA! — FIGHT! FIGHT!
IT WAS VERY SHORTLY AFTER THIS THAT THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND HIS ASSISTANTS FORCED THEIR WAY INTO GRIGGS' OFFICES! — (IT WAS HERE WE LEFT THEM!)
HOLD IT! WHAT WAS THAT NOISE?
SOUNDED LIKE A KNOCK
THERE IT IS AGAIN! — IT'S THAT DOOR, CHIEF! SOME ONE'S KNOCKING!
HE WAS POINTING TO THE CLOSET DOOR BEHIND WHICH PAM LAY GASPING FOR BREATH!

These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

PRICES POINT UPWARD DURING HEAVY TRADING

Buying in Rails and Utilities Features General Advance; Steel Stocks Watched.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Buying in rails and utilities kept the stock market pointed upward today.

With trading so heavy the ticker fell behind the market for a time, gains of fractions to more than a point were general.

Heading the advance were such issues as American Telephone, Great Northern preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, Westinghouse Electric, Pennsylvania and North American.

Rail bonds stepped forward with fresh vigor. Commodities were mixed.

Continued railroad ordering of equipment and expectation power consumption and rail traffic would benefit from the widespread business improvement evident lately helped divert the buying into the rail and utility shares. They were behind in the first phases of the war upswing.

Rising costs in wake of the war boom in commodities focused attention particularly on steel products.

Noting some steel prices already have been raised following the run-up in scrap, the "Iron Age" said consumers were pressing the larger companies to make an early announcement on prices for the first quarter of 1940.

The publication added operations of the industry were "destained to go higher within the next few weeks." Mill books, it said, hold a "tremendous volume of business."

RUSSIA GREETS GERMAN ENVOY

These developments, said diplomats, might include:

1. Signing of a German-Soviet military agreement.

2. Formation of a new Balkan-near eastern bloc under the guidance of Turkey and Russia.

3. A joint German-Soviet request that Turkey act as intermediary in attempts to negotiate peace in western Europe.

The purpose of the visit of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, said Tass, official Russian news agency, was to discuss "problems connected with developments in Poland."

Moscow observers thought it significant, however, that von Ribbentrop should time his journey to coincide with the presence of Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu.

Recalling von Ribbentrop's first historic visit here Aug. 23, when Germany and Russia signed their epochal non-aggression pact, these observers were prepared for fresh surprises.

The first of these surprises came in reports that Albert Forster, Danzig Nazi leader, would accompany von Ribbentrop, who was expected to arrive at the Moscow Civil airport at about 6 p. m. (10 a. m. EST.) today.

While the impending visit of the Nazi official occupied the center of the stage, there was speculation on the possibility that Russia may have made strong demands for maritime rights upon her little Baltic neighbor, Estonia.

A government communique issued last night accused Estonia of harboring unidentified submarines in her waters, and declared that an Estonian explanation of the escape of the interned Polish submarine Orzel from the harbor of Tallinn had proved "unsatisfactory."

Britain Rejects 'New Peace Deal.'

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The British government today flatly rejected in advance any "peace deal" framed in Moscow by German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Suspecting that the object of his second visit to the Soviet capital in four weeks is aimed at solidifying the Russo-German agreement by military implementation and at "freezing" or frightening the Balkan and Baltic states into pro-German and pro-Russian neutrality, authoritative British sources made known their attitude even before Von Ribbentrop had landed in Moscow.

Great Britain, it was said, will accept no formula that leaves Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler master of Germany, and as such able to consolidate the gains he has already made in preparation for an assault upon his next victim, whomever it might be.

ARRIVES SAFELY

BUCYRUS—A refugee from the European war zone, Myron Bittikofer, son of former Crawford County School Supt. F. G. Bittikofer of Marysville, has arrived back in America after a several months' tour of Europe.

Bittikofer planned to remain in Europe until January but changed his plans and sailed on the Italian liner Rex, arriving in New York Saturday. He reported that the ship was stopped several times by German submarines, but was not molested.

SIEGFRIED LINE CRACKED, CLAIM

French Artillery Wipes Out Part of Heavily Fortified Sector in Germany.

front at the northern end of the French-German frontier, where, French sources said, there were 30 to 40 German pillboxes to the square mile.

French military men were said to have held long the belief that these works were constructed too hurriedly to stand up under heavy bombardment.

Reports from the front said the French air force was proving a large factor in enabling the artillery to score direct hits on the German fortified line.

French infantry activity, these reports declared, was confined to patrol skirmishes.

Long range German guns were reported to have dropped "several shells" on unidentified villages which previously had gone untouched. The artillery action, the French said, could be characterized as a "duel."

They declared they had been unable to verify reports of the bombing of the German airplane works at Friedrichshafen early in the week, but revised upward their estimates of the number of German planes shot down during an air battle over the western front Monday.

New information, they said, showed "almost certainly" that four German planes were brought down. French losses were still estimated at two planes.

German troops, meanwhile, were said to be massing behind the lines as fast as they could be transferred from the Polish front.

The French professed to see German uneasiness regarding the eastern front in reports that Fuehrer Hitler had ordered his army high command to speed mopping-up operations in Poland.

At the same time, the French apparently were concerned lest Germany strike through neutral Belgium, the Netherlands, or Switzerland.

(Germany officially has disavowed any such plan.)

HEARING TODAY

Black Contempt Charge Before Appeals Court at Canton.

Hearing of a charge of contempt against Robert B. Black, Mansfield, a director of the Ohio Brass company, growing out of his refusal to reveal records of the estate of his father, the late Frank B. Black, was scheduled for today before the district appeals court in Canton.

Black, who was released under $500 bond last Friday after the charge was filed by H. M. Rust, a notary public, was in Canton today with his attorney, W. M. Weldon.

The appeals court will determine whether Black was in contempt in refusing to turn certain figures over to Rust during the taking of depositions in a personal tax suit involving the estate of the late Mr. Black.

The suit, filed in the Fifth district appeals court by Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, as a taxpayer, contends that a part of the personal property of the late Mr. Black was not listed for taxation from 1926 to 1932.

WARSAW FALLS, GERMANS CLAIM

Poland Surrenders Battered City, Berlin Says; Capital Reported in Flames.

"Warsaw has been virtually razed," said the radio announcer declaring, however, that "the morale of the population is excellent and we will never give in while one of us still is alive."

Speaking at 2:15 p. m. (8:15 p. m. EST) he reported German bombing planes were throwing incendiary bombs into the center of the city.

Communication within the capital was described as impossible "because of the fires and universal wreckage."

"The food situation is tragic," said the announcer. "Our last hospital was destroyed by German shells today."

Rumania Holding Poland's Gold Stock.

(UP Staff Correspondent)

BUCHAREST, Rumania—Part of Poland's gold stock, deposited "in transit" at the Rumanian national bank, will be held at the disposal of the Polish government, it was reported today.

The present Polish government, headed by President Ignace Moscicki, is interned in Rumania but it was reported persistently that a new government would be established in France and that some of the Polish archives and the national seal already had been sent there.

Reliable Polish sources said that the formation of a new government awaited only word from Ignace Jan Paderewski, the Polish pianist and patriot, as to whether he would head it. It was said that Moscicki had indicated his willingness to resign, thus dissolving the whole government, including the cabinet, if he could be certain the future of Poland was "in good hands." Paderewski, first premier of modern Poland established after the World war, is immensely popular with the Polish people.

(At Zurich, Switzerland, where Paderewski lives, his secretary was to have said no offer had been received from representatives of the Polish government.

It was believed that if the interned Polish officials resigned, they would be released as ordinary refugees and permitted to go to France.

(At Budapest it was reported that the flight of Polish refugees into Hungary was ceasing with the arival of Russian troops along the Hungarian frontier. The German-Russian demarcation line will extend the Russian occupation all across the Polish-Rumanian border and across 15 miles of the Slovakian border.

from the roof but did not set fire to the building.

At 7:15 a. m. lighting hit the home of John Marion, 647 Bowman street, following the electrical wiring without damaging the house, firemen who were called, reported.

Classes at Marion Harding high school were dismissed temporarily because lightning struck the building early today and damaged a chimney. School officials placed the damage at $1,000.

In the village of Tallmadge, near Akron, a bolt struck a 300-foot antenna tower of radio station WADC damaging equipment. The station was off the air nearly two hours.

While only a third of an inch of rain was recorded officially at the weather observer station near the city, it is believed that nearly on inch of rain fell in some sections here.

Rising temperatures were forecast for tomorrow as the mercury rose to 61 at noon. Generally fair and slightly cooler is tonight's prediction.

NEWSMEN VISIT GERMAN FRONT

Inspect Battle Lines on Western Frontier; Here's What They Saw.

What we saw was remarkable. In one field three-fourths of a mile wide and one and a quarter miles long there were 60 to 70 defense units, and the officers said that along the entire front there were tens of thousands.

The West Wall is constantly being improved and enlarged, we were told. New construction was seen everywhere. Originally the West Wall was erected only opposite the French frontier. Hitler ordered it extended to the Holland and to Switzerland frontiers.

The line or wall consists of a front line of individual defense units of concrete and steel, and first and second air defense zones crowded with anti-aircraft batteries, both fixed and mobile.

The frontier regions which we visited were completely militarized, although life in villages and on farms was going on as normally as was possible in the circumstances.

Villages teem with soldiers who are quartered in them as well as in garrison towns.

None of the villages from Cologne via Aachen (Aix La Chapelle) to Trier (Treves) seemed to be evacuating its people to other areas. Both Aachen and Trier seemed normal despite reports they were being evacuated.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1939.

We are now in the midst of that short but delightful season between lawn mowing and snow shoveling.

Europe is anxious to know what the United States is going to do about it—so are the people over here.

The American Feline society says the cat is the most abused and least understood of all domestic animals—and the opinion of birds would also be interesting.

Month of Debate Probable

PROBABLY as accurate a forecast as any coming out of Washington, as the senate makes ready to attack the neutrality problem, is one to the effect that practically the entire month of October will be devoted to efforts to arrive at agreement by senate and house as to the best legislative course to pursue in keeping the United States out of war.

Predictions are that it will be early November before any actual revision of the Neutrality Act will be carried to completion and be made effective, although the noticeable speed-up in some lines of industry has been widely attributed to belief that the arms embargo will shortly be removed.

While progress of the war in Europe may have some effect on public sentiment in this country, and consequently on action by congress, the present trend continues strongly toward support of a "hands off" policy, with adherence to whatever course appears most likely to preserve neutrality.

Unless there is greater success in curbing unneutral expressions of high government officials, however, maintenance of neutrality as a national policy will become increasingly difficult, especially if the predicted invasion of small neutral countries in Europe is carried through as a part of Hitler's strategy on the western front.

Considered at its best, the situation of the United States is precarious at this time, and there is requirement for sound judgment and carefully weighed speech on the part of all persons associated with executive and legislative branches of government. Many regard it as vitally important, also, that congress continue in session as long as the present crisis continues.

Those who have expressed approval of two Thanksgivings are equally insistent that one Christmas is all the pocketbook will stand.

How Much Would It Cost?

BEFORE any action is taken on the Bigelow pension proposal of $50 a month for every person in Ohio above the age of 60 years, or $80 a month for man and wife, some clearer idea of the probable annual cost should be given to taxpayers of the state.

The Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, a minister of the People's church in Cincinnati, estimates the cost of such a program at $56,000,000 a year.

Other estimates, made by those who regard the plan as impractical, run as high as $303,000,000 a year.

There is too much of a difference here to be lightly passed over as merely incidental to the project and subject to adjustment when the time comes.

Surely there is some way, by drawing on statistical knowledge, to estimate the cost within a few million dollars, instead of having a difference of $247,000,000 in calculations based on the same set-up of requirements.

In the event of adoption of such a constitutional amendment as Rev. Bigelow is promoting it would be the taxpayers of Ohio who would have to foot the bill, and they have a right to know what the bill will amount to before they OK it.

It was Robert Quillen who thought to observe: "The rich have twin beds; the poor have twins."

Housebuilding Help

FAMILIES planning to build houses in the years ahead should suffer fewer of the difficulties arising from inexperience. There is a widespread movement to put house building on a sound and intelligent basis, to get into the small house as much lasting value, convenience and beauty as possible at moderate cost.

A recent proposal along this line is the organization in Cleveland of a Home Builders Institute which would unite the services of a number of other organizations already in the field and serve as a clearing house of reliable information for the family entering upon its first housebuilding venture.

This institute would register and certify houses as to quality of materials and workmanship, and provide plans and inspection and accurate information for prospective home builders. A program of this sort should be as good news to architects, contractors, building supply concerns and workmen as to the individuals to be served. Anything that creates confidence in the ultimate result will stimulate the desire to start. Incidentally, anything which promotes the building of good dwellings benefits all business and industry and improves social conditions.

New Licenses Required

WITH Saturday night as the deadline for use of current drivers' licenses, the customary last-minute rush is being confidently anticipated at the Auto club office, where several thousand motorists usually spend considerable time waiting in line on the final day or two before new licenses are required.

As matters now stand, only about half of the probable total number of drivers' licenses have been issued here in the three weeks they have been available, leaving the other half to be issued in the three remaining days.

Brighter Pavements

NEARLY all efforts so far to make highways brighter at night seem to depend mainly on the automobile headlights for their success. But lighting engineers are beginning to consider the pavement itself.

A "diffusing pavement" is being used experimentally on a stretch of roadway near Lynn, Mass. Its purpose is to spread the rays which fall on it from overhead lights. There is glued to the regular pavement a layer of granite chips with reflecting and refracting power which make available for visibility 30 per cent more of the light than usual.

Whenever anything of this kind is mentioned, there are drivers who immediately want to know why the engineers don't start at the bottom of the whole trouble, and insist on light colored paving materials which themselves will reflect more light.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—One tragedy of the war was visited upon a young fellow named Colton.

Colton is a bachelor writer for the National Geographic. Remember that he is a bachelor. Two months ago he was assigned as the writer member of a scientific group going into the South seas to study flora and fauna.

Of all fine places in the world, their center of operation was to be Bali.

The expedition was fully organized. A U. S. coast guard cutter had been assigned from the Pacific side to take the party out and attend to its wants.

Then came the war. Just two days before Colton and the party were to leave Washington, the coast guard cutter was ordered to the Atlantic to prevent German submarines from annoying flora and fauna along our east coast. The expedition folded at once. Colton will remain in Washington.

War Note: Applications for commissions in the army and navy officers' reserve corps have increased steadily. The navy would like to get a bigger reserve of naval architects but instead gets a flock of applications from lawyers wanting to join the non-combatant Judge Advocate General's division.

Peace Note: The only gas mask in the state department has been removed. It was part of a war department exhibit and went down to the Munitions building on the banks of the Potomac when the war department had to clear out to make way for the President's executive staff. Our observations indicate not a gas mask can be bought here.

TRAVELERS returning to this country on the Empress of Britain were kept in complete ignorance of the sinking of the Athenia—which occurred when the Empress was not far from that vicinity. Not until the boat was safe in the protected waters of the St. Laurence did they learn about it.

The Empress, a very fast boat, ran away from every craft that appeared on the horizon. It took no chances on a mistake in identification, but turned hard on its beam to get out of sight.

It develops, also, that zig-zagging on a fast passenger liner is less than fun. An unsteady stomach has no place on a belligerent liner in a war zone. Racing through the waves at breakneck speed the boat zigs right and zags left in unending succession. The wake of white-churned water behind the boat looks like the path of drunken earthworm. No zig is like the next zag. Regular zig-zags would be easy for a submarine to calculate. So the liner zigs perhaps 200 yards then zags 350 yards, then zigs again. It sways far over on its side at each turn.

The Empress zig-zagged clear across the Atlantic until a merciful fog settled down upon it when it was a day out from Halifax. Then it straightened out, and contrary to peace time precautions, raced to port full speed through the fog.

CIVILIZATION NEEDS A LIGHTHOUSE

Listen, World!

"The Sin Against the Holy Ghost."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO HE'D GONE AWAY. No warning or explanation. Just turned his back and left his wife and babies as if they'd never existed. No, they hadn't quarreled. There wasn't, in fact, anything to quarrel about . . . that is, anything you could put into reasonable words. Everyone knew she was a model wife—and crazy in love with him.

Too much in love, that was the crux of the whole matter, he, Aaron Sisson, said to himself, squirming uncomfortably, feeling her watchful eyes, her clutching hands still upon him. People, of course, would say he was a rotter. Maybe he was. But a man couldn't breathe, with a love like that closing in on him. Couldn't call his soul his own; And you HAD to be able to call your soul your own . . . you'd go mad if you couldn't . . . secretly, smilingly mad, under the ceaseless mauling of those eyes and hands. So he'd gone away, without a word or plan. Anywhere — it didn't matter — s'long as he got out before he cracked completely!

YOU'VE known cases like that, haven't you? And condemned them, probably. Yet, strangely, there was something in you that understood. Maybe you've felt that way, yourself, about someone . . . mate, parent or friend . . . hiding your rebellion behind camouflaged courtesy . . . telling yourself that "love always turns out like this."

And in tragically many cases, it does. Incompatibility, non-support, unfaithfulness . . . you'll find these and a score of other charges listed as grounds for divorce. But not once in a thousand times are they the real reasons for a broken marriage. The actual cause lies in our stupid misunderstanding of love and the rights which we think it should give us.

D. H. Lawrence, the great English writer, stressed this point in every novel he wrote. Love, he felt, was meant to be vital and generous . . . life's most enlarging experience. Instead, so often, we turned it into a cruel trap . . . just such a trap as Aaron Sisson fled. Yet even as Aaron fled, he asked these questions which we often ask ourselves—

It had been so lovely once—what had happened to that first radiant adventure? What had stripped its mystery . . . smothered its free expression . . . hardened its quickening impulse into a mechanical round of meaningless gestures? Love, he told himself, had become "a battle in which each party strove for the mastery of the other's soul!" But that was deadly! Lovers were meant to complement each other! Love that consumed life — or thwarted life—wasn't love. It was a dreadful perversion.

He saw that much of what we call love is based on self-deception. It is not love we want, but possession. We do not cherish love for its beauty, we seek it because of the advantage it gives us over some other mortal . . . the dangerous intimacy it offers, an intimacy we use to satisfy some need in our own nature.

Perhaps it is a need for POWER, which we have not the wit to achieve by legitimate methods. Perhaps we are afraid to be alone, afraid to face our own inadequacy and need someone constantly to reassure us . . . perhaps we even wish someone on whom to vent our spite, to serve as a WHIPPING POST in the place of those we hate but dare not harm. But, whatever the need, love was never intended for any of these uses.

And, thinking of love's degradation, I remember that phrase in the Bible which seemed strange to me as a child—"THE SIN AGAINST THE HOLY GHOST!" What was that blackest of all evils? I couldn't imagine, then. But now I believe I see—TO TURN GOD'S LOVELIEST GIFT INTO A TRAP . . . TO MANGLE ITS BEAUTY AND PERVERT ITS MEANING FOR OUR OWN GREEDY ENDS . . . THAT IS THE VILEST OF ALL EVILS — THE "SIN AGAINST THE HOLY GHOST."

Freud Dies In Exile.

Sigmund Freud who died Saturday night in London was a great stimulating force in the study of abnormal mental states. While he was an extremist and while many of his ideas have been discarded — some of them by Freud himself in his later years—he made a great contribution to the field in which he worked. The present accepted methods of dealing with various hysterical and other nervous phenomena owe much to his pioneer investigations.

Most of his long life was lived in Vienna. An ornament to the capital, one of its distinguished citizens, he was given the freedom of the city in 1926. After the annexation of Austria by German last year his Jewish birth made it impossible to continue his work in the city to whose scientific reputation he had so signally contributed. He took refuge in London.

A political system that does not tolerate a man like Freud passes judgment on itself in the eyes of civilized people.—Kansas City Times.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The machine age has been overtaken and passed — as far as New York is concerned — by the slot machine age. About the only thing the machines haven't been able to give you is a shave. You can drop nickels (dimes and 15 cents too) in slots along our boulevards and obtain coffee, sandwiches, cigarettes, handkerchiefs, chocolates, beautiful music, peanuts, mints, perfume sprays, and even books. Or perhaps they should be called pamphlets. These, to me, are the newest thing in slot machines. There is a huge one in the Chambers street station and a swift glance as I sped past noted these titles (1) Is Hitler a Maniac?; (2) Do You Lose Your Temper?; (3) and, The Truth About Mussolini. There were perhaps a dozen other titles. You drop in a dime, select the title that amuses you most, and pull down a lever. The book drops out.

OUR waterfront has changed its spots. It doesn't look the same. The big German-American Hamburg line docks are as silent and empty as a churchyard at night. When you pass there you get echoes back if you even think.

Near at hand the big Normandie, pride of the French marine service, is snug at her pier. But she is a deserted ship. Her crew has fled back to France, leaving only "the watch." No one is in evidence as you nose by, but if you attempted to get too close, or board her, there would be plenty of gendarmes to pounce on you.

The other day I talked for nearly an hour with the captain of a low-lying black and yellow freighter. She was black and yellow then. But as we talked dozens of men were hastily converting her into a ghost ship of gray—gray sides and decks and funnels and trimmings. It was the shade of gray best calculated to become undiscernable in clouds and in fog and mist. She was the ship of a belligerant nation.

"How long are you going to remain here in Hoboken?" I asked the captain. I didn't expect an answer, and when I got one I was greatly surprised. "At least three weeks," he said, "right here."

But next day as I drove past she was gone. She moved out under cover of night on the long trek that will end—she devoutly hopes—in her home port.

SOMETIME ago this column relayed the anguish of a young man who wanted to transfer his attentions from one young woman to another. To achieve this he told Young Lady No. 1 that he was going to return to South America. Heart-broken she arranged a farewell dinner for him and insisted on accompanying him to the ship. He finally bid her a tearful farewell and went aboard. Of course, he sneaked ashore again by way of the crew's passageway.

But next day the ship sank, and hundreds lost their lives. To this day the girl believes her lover was drowned, and it is understood she burns a candle in her room and prays for him every day. The young man has lived in terror ever since, in fear that he will come face to face with her on the street.

There have been requests for the climax of the story. People want to know what happened. I'm sorry to disappoint these people, but that's all—they never met. In fact, last month this fellow really left for Chile. He's editing a newspaper down there.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Government officials privately are debating the necessity of muffling radio equipment on all belligerent vessels when they come into U. S. waters.

In discussing this, officials observe diplomatic niceties and refer only to "Country A" and "Country B," but what they really mean is a situation like the following:

A German merchant vessel lying in a U. S. port observes the departure of a British vessel loaded with cotton, oil or other raw materials of war. The German vessel radios to a submarine, some of which are now in U. S. waters, giving a description of the ship, its cargo, time of departure and other essential information.

Result of these communications is to increase the hazard already encountered by British shipping from German submarines, and to place this country in the position of aiding in a strikingly unneutral act.

The radio-muffling would have to be done not only to German ships, however, but to ships of all belligerents.

Flanders Fields.

IN THE MIDST of state department rush, there is one man who takes a moment to reflect on the poppies. R. Walton ("Judge") Moore, counselor of the department, has lived long enough to see wars in perspective.

"It's a strange thing," says Judge Moore, "how poppies grow over the graves of dead soldiers." He recalls that when he visited the ancient battlefield of Waterloo in 1913, poppies grew in such profusion as to make the wheat fields red.

He also recalls the John McCrae poem about the poppies "In Flanders Fields." But he does not go so far as to believe that the blood of dead soldiers is in itself the cause of red flowers growing on fields of battle.

Embargo Line-Up.

THE arms embargo battle opened in the senate with a clear majority for repeal, but with the final outcome still very much in doubt.

Most significant thing about it was the administration's painful and last minute discovery that the scrap was going to be a lot tougher than expected.

When the president issued his call, the private feeling in the inner White House circle was that there would be relatively little difficulty about lifting the embargo. This view prevailed up to the time the senate convened, when it was quickly discarded.

To the surprise of administrationites, they learned that four Republicans and Democrats who also had been listed as sure repealers were balancing on the fense and refusing to commit themselves. None would give any definite reason for his uncertainty, but they indicated they were much impressed by the preponderance of the mail they were getting against repeal.

A secret investigation of this mail now under way indicates that a considerable portion of it is coming from Coughlin, Bund, and foreign sources. But much of it is not inspired, is motivated entirely by fear that tampering with the neutrality law will open the way to involving the country in the European conflict.

No Party Lines.

ALSO significant is the disjuncting of party and factional lines over the issue.

On the Republican side the leaders are widely split, McNary and Vandenberg against repeal, Austin and Taft favoring it. The Democrats, for the first time since 1937, are much more unified, although they, too, have a few big-name dissenters.

Most of the anti-New Dealers, particularly from the South, are backing Roosevelt—to the private, amused embarrassment of both factions. They have called each other so many names in the past that they are a little nervous at the idea of playing ball together.

Note—The announcement of the isolationists that they do not intend to filibuster should be taken with a large grain of salt. Their whole strategy is to stall for time, on the theory that the longer the fight lasts the better their chances of making converts.

Gentlemen's War.

INSIDE reports from U. S. military observers in Europe are that the Nazis have not taken off the gloves yet. American strategists are calling this a gentlemen's war.

So far no poison gas has been used, no liquid flame, nor any of the other modern military inventions which can make warfare so terrible.

The Germans are reported to have a disintegrating ray which explodes enemy armor when in fixed position at a range of six miles. Allied military circles also have been worried for more than a year because of a new radio beam supposed to have been developed by the Nazis which can freeze an enemy airplane motor while in flight.

Inside reason why the Nazis have kept their gloves on is the neutrality debate in the U. S. congress. The Germans are playing an extremely careful game as far as American public opinion is concerned. The last thing they want is a wave of resentment in the United States which would compel the lifting of the arms embargo.

War-Weary.

IF YOU don't believe the state department is working hard these days, consider the plight of the poor telephone girls. A newsman in the department's press room picked up a telephone to call another department. The operator, in a hoarse whisper, said, "Number?"

"Gosh, what's the matter with you?" said the newsman.

"Laryngitis," came the whispered answer.

"Why don't they give you some time off?"

"You have to be dead . . . . Number please?"

Merry-Go-Round.

THE sightseers don't know it, but every group of them which tours the Capitol since congress reconvened is accompanied by an unobtrusive plainclothes man. This precaution was decided on to prevent acts of violence by extremists or unbalanced persons during the neutrality debate. Additional detectives also have been stationed in the visitors' galleries.

Sowing Winter Wheat

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT IS seeding time for winter wheat. Many farmers have tarried longer than usual, because the soil is too dry. But now that September rains have delayed so long, with still no hope in sight, almost every cultivated field has a team and drill at work.

This afternoon my neighbor had the large disk drill hitched to his faithful tractor. His iron steed moved rapidly upon its cleated footing, and the long row of revolving disks bit deep into the loosened soil, but when I looked at the well-stirred dirt the drill had made there was no hint of moisture. Even in late afternoon, great clouds of dust floated eastward and obscured the border of the field.

A farmer in an adjoining piece of land used a team of heavy bays. Inside the fence at equal distances he placed bags of fertilizer and seed. When he reached the end he quickly raised the 12 hoes of the drill with one strong arm, holding the lines firmly with the other. The horses' heavy feet made deep imprints in the loosened soil as they turned short. Then he stopped to replenish his drill.

The fertilizer was of splendid quality, judging by the thick rank odor that emanated from the cloud of dust. The grain he poured into the other hopper flowed from his measure like a stream of living things. He smoothed the sharply raised heap almost tenderly and closed the lid. Then he lowered the shiny shovels and pulled easily upon the lines, and the team started south across the field while the farmer trudged behind, watching closely the moving parts. I watched the long straight converging lines the shovels made until they disappeared below a raise.

Neither was I unmindful of my neighbor's dusty hat, face and overalls, or the weariness of his step from plodding all day long over uneven ground. Yet today he was the sower of our summer harvest, the planter of those welcome soft green fields that dot our landscape in the spring—the hopeful reaper of the grain that feeds a hungry world. What other workman has had a task more vital?

Remember Meatless Days of 1918?---You Needn't Worry About Them Returning

We've Plenty Food, and Chances of Running Short Are Slight.

By SIGRID ARNE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON—Remember those times during the World war when the family sat down to macaroni and cheese so the pork and beef could be shipped "over there?"

Remember how your favorite restaurant hid the sugar bowls and slipped you one lump of sugar for your coffee? When you ripped up the lawn and flowers and planted "Victory gardens" of vegetables?

American housewives seemed to remember only too well the first week of September this year. Some of them stood four and five deep at the grocers demanding 10- and 20-pound sacks of sugar.

But, says the Department of Agriculture, this country has a huge sugar surplus. There's no need for a price rise. Moreover there are surpluses of most major foods.

That's different from 1914. Then the war broke on an unsuspecting world. This is a tailor-made war, i nthe making for three years or more—right down to food supplies.

Our Own Carry-Overs.

The world has huge surpluses of wheat and sugar, smaller ones in other foods, and the warring countries are supposed to have laid up big reserves.

Our food carry-overs for next year include: 300 million bushels of wheat and 250 million pounds of food fats.

There are other changes since 1914, and several "ifs."

There's the diet change. Back in '14 we were meat-and-potato people. Now food chemists have taught us so much about vitamins and calories that our diet spreads over a wider range of foods. The whole world won't be demanding meat at once.

There's the change in farming. In 1914-18 the farmers jumped the size and number of farms to meet expected demands — and in the peak year of 1920 we were supplying Europe 50 per cent of her food. Our farms have never shrunk to the pre-1914 level. It should be easier this time to expand acreage to meet peak demands.

To Keep Prices Down.

There's our own jealously guarded food plan, if worst comes to worst. It's part of the war plan which has been worked on since 1920.

It includes a system of rationing that could be put into effect immediately. But it's such an unpleasant idea that officials hush-hush it. And anyway, the only rationing in 1914-18 was voluntary.

There's the new war resources board, already at work, to soften the economic shock that war always brings, even to peaceful countries. That has a food division to meet profiteering.

Remember how the old food administration affected prices? Take flour. In the last peace war it cost $8.75 a barrel. By May, 1917, it was up to $17. Then the food administration was organized. By February, 1918, flour had dropped to $10.50 a barrel.

There's the change in European buying of war supplies. England and France have pooled their purchasing. In 1914 they competed with each other in American markets and drove prices up by their haggling.

Of course, there are the "Ifs."

If we slapped on a strict embargo of all supplies to warring nations, prices might drop.

If we removed restrictions, the munitions industry might boom, men go back to work, and prices rise—as they always do in a prosperity cycle.

But anyway there aren't any "Meatless Thursday" jitters around Washington.

Legion Gets Set to Act on Strict Neutrality Demand

ISSUE ON ARMS EMBARGO NOT IN RESOLUTION

War Veterans to Vote Today on Proposed Continuous Session of Congress.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — A resolution demanding strict American neutrality in the European war, but sidestepping the issue raised by President Roosevelt's proposed repeal of the arms embargo, was considered for adoption today by the American Legion national convention.

The resolution, which also demands that congress shall remain continuously in session "during the present grave crisis" and that the armed forces of the nation be expanded immediately, was adopted unanimously last night by the Legion's foreign relations committee.

It was presented to the entire convention today for consideration.

Ray Murphy, past national commander of Ida Grove, Ia., chairman of the foreign relations committee, said the resolution was "more than just a formal resolution."

"It will be if adopted by the convention, an American Legion pronouncement of the neutrality problem," he said.

The resolution placed squarely upon the shoulders of President Roosevelt and congress the responsibility for keeping the United States at peace and out of all European wars.

Text of the resolution follows:

"The American Legion views with gravest concern the apparently widespread belief that this nation must inevitably become involved in the European conflict. We not only believe that this nation need not become involved, but insist and demand that the president of the United States and the congress pursue a policy that, while preserving the sovereignty and dignity of this nation, will prevent involvement in this conflict.

"The American Legion is not a law making body. It has often recommended to the congress the enactment of legislation establishing a permanent or fixed policy on important national problems.

"The American Legion has always strenuously advocated that this nation pursue a policy of neutrality and peace. In the present crisis world conditions may change so rapidly that a pronouncement by the American Legion at this time on specific legislation may be wholly inadequate in the near future.

"Therefore, with full confidence in the president and the congress, we demand that the congress continue in session during the present grave crisis and that appropriate action be taken to preserve the peace, sovereignty and dignity of this nation and that our armed forces be expanded immediately to maintain our neutrality."

'OOMPH GALS' AND 'YUMPF GALS' PUT 'OOMPH GAL' ANN ON 'SPOT'

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Red-haired Ann Sheridan, Hollywood's much-publicized "oomph girl," arrived in New York today a trifle confused about what makes an "oomph girl" oomph.

There is a difference, however, she said, between "oomph" and "yumpf."

What is the difference, Miss Sheridan?

"Well, oomph is—is—" Miss Sheridan did something smoulder-ing with her big, big hazel eyes.

Thank you, Miss Sheridan. And now yumpf?

"I don't know," she confessed. "All I know is, they had a yumpf girl before. Wasn't it Hedy Lamarr, or somebody? And I'm oomph, you see?"

A studio blurb said Miss Sheridan, among other things, including turnips, "doesn't like traffic cops;" but when the Twentieth Century rolled into Central station and Miss Sheridan saw a crowd of 600 spectators struggling behind banners which proclaimed "Ann Sheridan Fan Clubs," she clutched hard at the elbows of two husky police escorts.

"I'm beginning to love traffic cops," she said.

Miss Sheridan, who said her mother, Mrs. G. W. Sheridan of Denton, Tex., is a Cherokee Indian, shyly admitted that maybe her "oomph" came from the Indian side—and, if so:

"Maybe I can help give the Indians back to the country."

The Hollywood star, who has just finished a picture with John Garfield entitled "City of Lost Men," planned to leave for a series of personal appearances in Washington, D. C., tomorrow night and then return to New York.

"It's my first trip east of Dodge City, Kansas," she said, surveying the New York scene through a cold drizzle, "and it's simply too big to grasp."

Engineer Speeds Passenger Train Over 'Sea of Fire'

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)— Fellow trainmen today acclaimed a veteran railway engineer at the hero after he raced his train with 200 passengers through a lake of fire, guided it across a river trestle with his cab in flames and brought it safely into the railroad yards here.

The engineer was J. M. Bland of Little Rock. He gave this version of the incident:

Shortly before his Memphis section of the Missouri Pacific's Sunshine limited pulled into the North Little Rock yards early Tuesday, a gasoline tank car was punctured in a switching accident, spilling gasoline into a vast pool.

Unaware of the gasoline, Bland put his train into the yards. Sparks from the engine's fire box ignited the gasoline, enveloping the engine and creating a blazing lake hundreds of yards in front of the nine-car train.

Bland shoved up the throttle and increased his speed to 50 miles an hour. With the train clear of the blazing gasoline, the scorched cab caught fire, forcing Bland and his firemen out onto the platforms in front of the cab. This occurred just as the speeding locomotive approached the big railway bridge spanning the Arkansas river between the twin cities.

Bland thrust his gloved hand through the flames of the cab to the throddle and the train roared safely into the yards here where the fire was extinguished.

DEMOCRACY REFLECTS COMBINED SENSE OF PEOPLE, DEAN SAYS

Recognition of the dignity of the human individual is an essential to democracy, Dean T. W. Graham of the graduate school of theology at Oberlin college, said in an address at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

With "The Price of Democracy" as his subject Dean Graham reviewed earlier attempts at self government, which, he said, reflects the combined common sense of the common people.

"We find no occasion to mistrust the will of the common people when its expression is based on informed judgment," he said. "Channels of information should not be muddied at their source, and all people should have access to facts, with opportunity to express their judgment in an unrestricted way."

Democracy, he explained, requires acceptance of belief that men will conduct themselves in a way that deserves to be dignified and it must be kept in mind that mass movements are slow, but serve to elevate mankind, while dictatorships move faster but beat down manhood and womanhood to accomplish the greater speed.

Training and practice, starting in the home and extending through schools and into adult life, were held as essential to progress in democracy.

Group singing was directed by LeMoine Derr, with piano accompaniment by Maurice Stretch. R. D. Iden was program chairman.

HILL FOLK EBB IN CALIFORNIA

'Hill Billy' Population on Decline Due to Decrease In Lumbering.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. —(U.P.)—California's hill population is rapidly declining, according to Jan O. M. Broek, assistant professor of geography at the University of California.

This decline in the "hill billy" population, he said, was taking place despite a steady increase in population throughout the state.

"The passing of the old hill family and many of its descendants," he said, "is due to the decline in lumbering and range operations, decline in the birth rate, the competition of valley and rural communities.

"These combined with the fact that California has a low birth-rate as compared with the country as a whole, have brought about the phenomenon of lower population in the uplands, while population in the lowlands is increasing."

As a result of this situation, he declared, a high number of schools in the hill country have been closed, not because of the establishing of consolidated schools for several formerly independent districts, but because the number of children has so decreased that even the required minimum of five for each district cannot be maintained.

"The situation has become so marked," he said, "that certain counties in the hill districts are obliged to depend on migration to maintain their present population."

The tool is in an historic old foundry at Tinker's Hollow, five miles from here, and the story of its discovery is told by Elmer Wiley.

"When young Bill Tinker, whose father built the foundry, first started to work on the dock's," the old man explained, "he had to be initiated into the ways of dockmen. They sent him after a left-handed monkey wrench—but he fooled them—"he got one!"

Wiley explained the wrench, now the property of the fourth Tinker generation, is of iron, measuring 14 inches. It differs from the conventional wrench in that the stem which regulates the jaws has a left-handed thread.

DYNAMITE BLAST RIPS TROUSERS

WILMINGTON, Minn. — (U.P.) — Henry Meyer, farmer, has a new body on his car and a new seat in his trousers today—all because he had two sticks of dynamite in the back seat of his automobile.

Meyer was driving peacefully down the road to town, when the blast sent him zooming out of the car. Upon recovering from a hard, three-point landing, he inspected his battered vehicle.

We have kept the advantages of Ethyl fluid, and developed in SOHIO SUPREME a motor fuel that is higher in anti-knock, with a better balance of acceleration and power, than any gasoline we have ever before produced for automobile engines. Regardless of the car you drive, we believe the superior qualities of this modern gasoline will be evident with your very first tankful—which you can get today at no increase over the usual price for premium fuels.

DRY SOIL CHART OF PLAINS MADE

Revised Farming Practices to Conserve Moisture Needed, U. S. Officials Say.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Revised farming practices to conserve limited subsoil moisture in the Western Great Plains are essential to the successful growth of wheat, Department of Agriculture officials insist.

An exhaustive, 30-year study of moisture measurements in the semi-arid plains shows, officials said, why the summer fallowing of wheat land is necessary to prevent evaporation of summer rains and conserve the moisture for fall seeding.

The study—from records kept at Harve, Mont.; North Platte, Neb.; Mandon, N. D., and Hays and Colby, Kas.—disclosed that wheat usually draws all available moisture from the ground by harvest time, leaving it as dry as after several years of drouth.

"This moisture must be renewed before another crop can be grown," the department said. "The dryland wheat farmer has not one chance in a hundred of a 20-bushel an acre yield if he seeds when the soil is dry.

"The chances are about 70 out of 100 that his crop will be a failure (four bushels or less) if subsoil moisture has not been restored. Even with three feet of moisture the chances are only 47 out of 100 of a crop of more than 20 bushels to an acre."

Even with summer fallow, officials said, there are parts of the Western Great Plains not suited to wheat, where the department is aiding farmers to switch from wheat to grass and livestock.

CAT MISSING 3 YEARS, RETURNS

GREENFIELD— (U.P.) — Lucifer Thomas Katz is back home after an absence of almost three years. Lucifer, pet cat owned by Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Duckworth, disappeared while they were on vacation in 1936.

No word was heard of the missing pet until Mrs. Duckworth heard a loud clamor on the back porch and opened the door to find Lucifer.

DECIMAL POINT BUILDS SAFETY

Accurate Statistics, Records Provide Clews to Causes, Engineers Told.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (U.P.) — "The statistician's decimal point is the safety expert's stethoscope," according to R. L Forney, who opened a one-week course in traffic accident reports and records at the National Institute for Traffic Safety Training here.

Forney, who is chief statistician for the National Safety Council, told traffic engineers that "'the need for better accident statistics becomes more and more acute as more obvious hazards and types of drivers."

"Even with these major hazards removed, accidents will continue," Forney said. "Accurate, complete statistics and records provide the only clews to the less obvious accident causes."

The course, held at the University of Michigan, stressed the development of summaries, files and records that are of specific use to the traffic engineer, enforcement officer and safety educator.

There is no national pattern of a typical accident, Forney explained. Each accident has its own. A dangerous intersection may need entirely different engineering treatment than another intersection that produces the same number of accidents.

Records should answer such questions as: How many were pedestrians? How many drivers had been drinking? What is the ratio of accidents between business and residence areas? How many occurred at night, in fog or in rain? Were the vehicles making right or left turns?

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disfiguring spots affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin often result from a temporary disturbance, or merely from incorrect cleansing.

You can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and help your skin by using an ointment whose medication stays in active contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.

For nearly 45 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritated oil ducts where many surface pimples start, and aids healing. Carefully cleansing the skin with Resinol Soap helps to quicken the pleasing results. Its gently active lather is refreshing and it rinses easily.

Buy a jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap from any druggist. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 89, Baltimore, Md.

"Those Pains Don't Torment Me Now," Says Ohio Resident

Tells how pains in back, legs, and shoulders were relieved, regained restful sleep and other benefits after Vendol relieved constipation.

MR. CHARLES FERGUSON

Every day scores of Mansfield men and women come to the Central Drug Store, to obtain the famous Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine Vendol, and many testify to its remarkable power to relieve many symptoms of distress.

Those suffering from nervous indigestion, acid risings, lump in throat, palpitation, dizziness, spots before the eyes, cramps, leg pains and a host of other symptoms when due to constipation or need of a diuretic to the kidneys, report remarkable relief by taking a few bottles of Vendol. For instance:

Mr. Charles Ferguson, of 108 N. Wittenberg Ave., Springfield, Ohio, says: "I never saw the equal of Vendol for giving such quick relief. I was constipated all the time which made me so nervous I could never get a restful night's sleep, often being disturbed by dreams and getting out of bed frequently.

"I was troubled with pains in my back, legs and arms. Even my shoulders and neck seemed sore. Acid indigestion and gas bloating troubled me so much I could never eat a meal in peace.

"Vendol helped me at once by giving the grandest relief from constipation I ever knew, and now I haven't a trouble left. Instead of being one of the most nervous people in the world, my nerves are now strong, and I sleep like a baby. My elimination is regular, I eat anything I want, and I never have an ache or pain. I wake up every morning feeling fine and ready for my daily duties. I simply feel like a new person, and after all Vendol did for me, it would be selfish not to tell others about it so they can get the same benefits."

Give this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine a chance to help you, too. It is cases like the above that have made Vendol's reputation, so don't delay trying it. Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., Mansfield, and let the Vendol Man explain all about it. Vendol is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

61 Richland Residents Pass Citizenship Exams Here

ALL BUT TWO OF APPLICANTS FOREIGN-BORN

Representing 13 Nationalities, Class to Receive Papers at Ceremony Oct. 5.

Mansfield and Richland county today had 61 new citizens who will be eligible to vote for the first time in November although some of them have lived here for several years.

The men and women—all but two of them foreign-born—won their citizenship rights by passing examinations conducted by Judge C. H. Huston and a naturalization officer in common pleas court. Sixty-eight petitions were heard, but seven were continued or dismissed.

Representing 13 nationalities, members of the class of new citizens will receive their naturalization papers Oct. 5 from Fred R. Zellner, county clerk of courts, at a reception in their honor at the American Legion home on Park avenue west. The American Legion auxiliary will sponsor the event.

Speakers will include R. B. Gardner, newly-elected Ohio department commander of the Legion, and Mrs. W. L. Beckley, past department president of the auxiliary.

Two Are American-Born.

Two members of the class who will receive their papers are American-born women who lost their citizenship prior to 1922 by marrying foreign-born men.

To qualify for citizenship, the applicants must have been a resident of the United States for five years in most cases and of the county for six months. They must have good records of behavior and a fair knowledge of government.

Woodring-Johnson Feud Stirs Washington

ADMINISTRATION OF WAR OFFICE MARRED BY ROW

Capital Wonders If Roosevelt Will Act in Personal Fight Between Two Officials.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Civilian administration of the war department is marred today in the midst of a mighty re-armament program by bitter personal feeling between Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring and Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson.

There is interest here among army officers, and Washingtonians who know of the situation—and that includes almost everyone. They wonder whether President Roosevelt will permit it to continue.

An incident at his regular press conference yesterday may mean that adjustment of the war department situation is on the way. The president was asked whether he had knowledge of a book, "Adjusting Your Business For War," written by Leo M. Cherne for which Assistant Secretary Johnson contributed a foreword.

He replied he had not heard of it until a few minutes earlier when the book and foreword were called to his attention by Woodring. Questioners asked whether the foreword represented official administration views.

President Hits at Books.

No book has the imprimatur of the administration, the president replied, adding a bombshell judgment that 90 per cent of all books on such subjects were by authors who know less than nothing of what they write.

If Mr. Roosevelt was shooting at the Cherne book, he scarcely could hit it without shell-shocking Assistant Secretary Johnson's foreword.

Army men here will follow developments closely. They have often wondered of late whether Woodring or Johnson was "in the dog house" and which, if either, will be dropped to restore harmony among the departmental civilian command.

Up and Down THE STREET

Senior high school classrooms may look like an art museum some of these days. Last year the art students did a mural on the walls of the biology classroom depicting the evolution of life, and it turned out so well that a second one will be done by this year's class, under the supervision of Miss Marjorie Campbell, art instructor. The mural will be a part of the regular class work. No theme has been chosen for this year's project.

Mansfielders now know how an ambitious author feels when he receives his first rejection slip from a publisher. A number of this town's baseball citizens were mailed "rejection slips" today. In this instance, the "rejections" came in the form of uncancelled checks and apologies from the Cincinnati baseball club. Virtually all of the Mansfielders who sent in requests for World Series tickets were refused because of a sell-out in which the demand was more than double the number of seats available.

Ralph B. Chapman, Y. M. C. A. general secretary, is not a stamp collector but he has one stamp which he received last week on a Y. M. C. A. bulletin from Europe that he intends to keep. It is a Polish stamp and was on a letter received from the general secretary of Y. M. C. A. work in Poland. The bulletin was mailed from Warsaw just before the present European war broke out.

One of those one-in-a-million pinochle hands came to John Miller, 111½ North Main street, the other day. After the deal was finished, Miller picked up his hand and found that he had 12 hearts. But he had a battle to get the bid for John Bautz, another of the foursome in the game, kept upping the bid. It developed that Bautz had all but a few of the spades in his hand. Miller won the hand, incidentally.

PUBLISHES SONG

Chicago Firm Accepts Melody Written by Mansfielder.

A song, "Rhythm of the Rails," written by Chester Finley, 189 South Foster street, and published by the Bell Music company of Chicago, was being distributed throughout the country today by the publishing company.

Finley has written eight songs but this is the first to be published. Employed at the Westinghouse company, Finley has been active in radio work as an electrical engineer at WLW, Cincinnati; WHAS, Louisville, and KMTR, Hollywood.

He said it was his daughter, Marjorie, still in school in Burbank, Cal., and a talented tap dancer, who inspired his new melody with the "clickety-click" of her taps.

The Bell Music and Piano company, South Park street, has placed a display in its window featuring Finley's new song.

POUR CONCRETE FOR 1,000-FOOT BRIDGE AT WESTINGHOUSE PLANT

Construction of a 1,000-foot industrial bridge which, when completed is expected to be the largest span of its type in the world, was under way today at the Westinghouse plant.

With excavation already completed, workmen today were pouring concrete for the bases which will support the overhead structure. Actual construction of the fabricated steel passageway is expected to be started in three weeks.

Entire cost of the project has been estimated at $135,000. Of this amount, $40,000 will be spent on the structure itself and $95,000 for property rights and equipment to be installed in the bridge.

The bridge will extend from the Westinghouse plant to the Mansfield Vitreous Enamel company, controlled by Westinghouse.

Officials said the structure was being built to reduce transportation costs and eliminate what they termed hazardous trucking operation between the plants.

The bridge will extend from the southwest corner of Wayne and East Fifth streets, east to Purdy street and then north to the vitreous works. It will cross Wayne street at a clearance of 52 feet and will parallel East Fifth street for a distance of 800 feet.

It will cross East Fifth street with a clearance of 25 feet and will run parallel of Purdy street on the west side for 400 feet.

Excavating and concrete work is being done by Harry Strodbeck, Mt. Vernon contractor. Contract for the steel construction has been let to the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company and elevators are to be installed by the Westinghouse Elevator company of Jersey City, N. J.

Contracts for fabricated roof, siding and flooring and for the conveyor system is expected to be awarded next week, officials said.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Atheists May Be Wrong But Better Citizens Than Some of Their Critics

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Some of our most prominent citizens seem to have arrived at a thorough misunderstanding of the status of atheists under the American form of government.

There is a careless or sometimes a deliberate dishonest assumption that because the Communists are atheists all atheists are Communists. And because the Communists are devoted to the purpose of destroying the government by civil war and to the suppression of religion by terror and burning all atheists are lumped together as enemies of the state and religion.

The truth is, however, that some thorough Americans, good citizens and honest traders, who have fought for the country in war are either lackadaisical atheists or convinced unbelievers. Such persons are not hostile to those who do believe in God and feel no mission to combat religion or belittle the faith of their neighbors.

They may be extremely tolerant by contrast with the extreme intolerance of conspicuous individuals on the other side of the question. Some of them get along on terms of warm personal friendship with enlightened and tolerant members of the clergy.

An atheist of my acquaintance who died not long ago was a bosom friend of a noted Catholic priest. They spent many hours together over a period of years, and the priest's personal admiration for the character, honesty and citizenship of his friend was such that he obtained special permission to deliver at his bier a eulogy which was not religious. That the priest, privately, offered a mass or a prayer for the repose of the soul of his friend I take the liberty of suspecting.

A statement or reminder of the rights of atheists in the United States is not a defense of atheism itself, nor can it honestly be stoned as a sly act of hostility to religious belief. The right to believe and worship is established and respected, but among those who exercise that right there are individuals given to violent forms of expressions, who appear not to understand that there is an equally sound right to doubt.

Certainly any person of sufficient education to wear the cloth and the title of reverend must know that an atheist need not necessarily believe in Communism and that it is possible for an atheist to live decently, deal honestly and defend the American form of government.

It should be emphasized that freedom of conscience can be abolished by coercion from either side and that conversions or professions obtained under conditions which inhibit free decision are counterfeit.

If it were true that persons who profess to believe in religion could therefore be relied upon for superior citizenship there would be a temptation to make some change. But, unhappily, profession and performance are not always consistent.

Some men who are noted in their communities for their apparent piety are notorious for their dishonesty in public affairs at a time when public officers have an unusually solemn duty to conduct themselves in a manner which will maintain popular confidence in the American form of government.

No individual Communist, at the present writing, can do more harm to that form government than the public official who runs a corrupt machine and gives the victims of his misrule occasion to doubt that popular government can work.

It is absolutely true that such a politician, for all his outward display of religious character, is not only a false Christian but a detriment to his religion. But it is equally true that people tend to accept profession and outward observance of religious form as signs of fitness and prefer a bad Christian to an honest man of established good citizenship who openly declares his inability to believe in God.

The atheist, just as an atheist, is not a church-burning, murdering terrorist. Some belong to societies for the propagation of their unbelief, but surely truth is not afraid to meet error in open conflict.

My reason for these observations is that some men who are using religion to create political power for themselves would like to impose on Americans the same compulsion to embrace religion that the Communists employ to compel the repudiation of their faith by poor wretches who are not quite up to martyrdom.

Once concede that religious belief is a required condition of American citizenship and the next step will be to single out a particular religion.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The first really cheerful set I've seen in this town since war broke out in Europe was that of "Broadway Melody of 1940"—which shows what music can do to lift the spirits.

Nobody was talking about war; the chorus girls (who always have just finished their routines and disappeared immediately before I walk on a set) were missing, but Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell, both trim and neat in white, were going through their "Begin the Beguine" routine.

The set—huge, with a dark blue, highly polished floor, one section of which was mirrored—was cheering in itself. High dark blue walls, studded with electric stars, surrounded two sides; a third side, made of mirrors, reflected the motions of Powell and Astaire; before the orchestra, and along the unmirrored side, graceful formally designed "palm trees" of silver reared shining heads. And to the wild music of the playback, Astaire and Powell went into their dance.

"Begin the Beguine." Do you know what it means? Ever since I first heard it, which is a while ago, I've been asking people. Musicians, jitterbugs who were in the jyve with it, swingaroos. Nobody knew. Here, I thought, was my chance to pin it down.

Bob Ritchie, who a year ago was traipsing through Europe finding new talent, was looking on, but he didn't know. Norman Taurog, who was directing, said he thought it had something to do with bayous, but he wasn't sure. Bobby Connolly, the dance director, opined the Beguine was a native love dance in Martinique. A secretary was dispatched to telephone the music department. The music department, which knows many things, didn't know this one.

"We better ask Cole Porter," said Taurog. "He wrote it."

And then it came up, from the publicity girl who had just found out from Cole Porter, himself, who wrote it. "Begin the Beguine" means, in fact, absolutely nothing. There's a little island called Beguine somewhere off the south of France, and Porter used it (pronounced be-geen) simply for euphony.

They're spending $130,000 on the "Begin the Beguine" number, and—

"Aren't we a bunch of intelligent people," announced Taurog, "to be doing all this—without even thinking of what it means?"

The new "Broadway Melody" has, besides Astaire and Powell, Hollywood's other importantly successful dancer: George Murphy.

Except for Vera Zorina, whose specialty is ballet, there isn't another major star in town who works at the dance as a serious business. There's Shirley Temple, of course, but dancing is incidental to Shirley's success. There's Ginger Rogers, but she's not majoring in footwork any more. And there's Joan Crawford, but Joan gave up hoofing long ago.

And the town, despite its scarcity of dancing stars, is full of dancers. Specialty dancers, chorus dancers, adagio dancers, every kind of dancer—and only four who've reached screen stardom through their feet!

Quarrel Over Children's Playful Joke

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a young man for about six months. I'm 17 and he's 23. We always had good times together and I thought he was fond of me. But the other day my young brother and some of his little friends thought of a trick to play on us. They went to the home of one of the other little boys and one of them called my friend to the phone, and disguised his voice to sound like mine. They kidded him along and then hung up. Then they called me up too, but I caught on right away and kidded back to them.

But it seems that he can't take a joke, and now he won't speak to me. When I see him he snubs me. I treated him swell, and we used to have good times at my house, dancing and playing the piano and singing. Now he talks to other boys about me.

WORRIED.

At the delightful age of 17, why worry about a young man so lacking in many of the essentials? If he couldn't tell the difference between your voice and that of a young child playing a prank, it looks as if he were not particularly bright, doesn't it?

And a boy who will talk about a girl with whom he has been on such friendly terms is not well bred, is he? How can you talk to him, if he won't even look at you on the street?

I've not told all you've confided about this young man, and I hope you'll forgive me for saying I think you've been very foolish. I suggest you find some friends who are more worthy of a nice girl friend.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Sept. 28.

The lunar aspects bearing rule on this day indicate a particularly lively, enterprising and productive day, with much stirring to aid in attaining very important objectives or high ambitions. It may take much skill, initiative, sound judgment and well-directed efforts to realize these goals, since there are auguries of opposition from high places. Such opposition should be met with sagacity or appeasement. There may be surprising developments of a romantic, public or social nature that may be gratifying and welcome.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of important, pleasant and gratifying developments in private life as well as in business relations. Progress, prosperity and attainment of lofty ambitions are forecast. These rewards come from hard work, cleverness, splendid abilities and the support of those in high places who may have to be placated or impressed. Joy may also crown romantic adventure or a desirable friendship.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, industrious, ambitions and aspiring, with excellent talents and qualities for success.

Plant lily-of-the-valley this month in well-prepared soil. The roots need not be far below the surface, but the plants will appreciate thorough working of the soil to a good depth and will give best results under such conditions. Partial shade and lots of moisture are requisites for the utmost success with these plants.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONFIDENCE VALUABLE

IN EVERY phase of life confidence may be a valuable asset. It is so in bridge, particularly the ability to have confidence in your partner. It enables you to make bids and plays which you would not consider otherwise, counting on him to hold the cards indicated by the bids, plays or signals he has already furnished. Such confidence may be still more valuable if you are up against opponents whom you can usually count on to make some kind of a mistake. It enables you to "get away with murder."

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

At most tables this duplicate deal furnished a plus score for North-South because the East-West pairs got a trick too high and went down one. But the top score for North-South was made by one pair of expert cardsmen who has confidence in each other's bidding, and who knew East and West as a pair of blunderers.

In the action at that table, East had bid 1-Spade. South 2-Diamonds. West 2-Hearts and then North cogitated. Knowing South as a very sound bidder, who did not make weak immediate overcalls he reckoned that either the diamond suit was solid with his own queen to plug it up, or else there were fair entries for it on the side. Having some sort of means to limit the run of the other suits. North called 2-No Trumps, which East doubled, since his partner had made a free bid over South's call.

After the heart K was led, East switched to the club Q to kill dummy's entry. North waited for the third club round to use dummy's A, then led to the diamond Q. West tossing his 8, East played his A on the second diamond, led a heart to the A. West offered another heart to North's Q, then a small spade was led. East was so hoggy for extra tricks in the set that he counted on West for the K, ducked this, the Q won and diamond tricks made the contract.

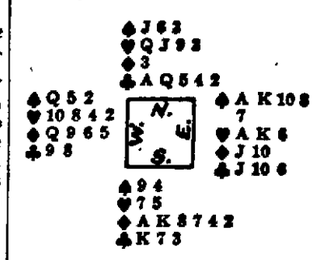
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Why can experienced duplicate players usually bid more soundly on a deal like this than those without such experience, even when playing rubbers?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Miss Whitlock confirmed Lillian's conjecture. When we reached my father's door she had an imperative message ready for us.

"He wishes to see all three of you immediately," she said.

"How is he?" I hung back long enough to ask.

"Surprisingly well, but tired," she answered. "If it's possible, try to keep him very quiet, and get through with whatever business you have as rapidly as you can."

"That's a sight easier to say than to do," Lillian retorted. "But we'll do our little best," and on the word we followed the nurse back into my father's room.

My father looked after her gratefully.

"A very intelligent woman," he said of the nurse. "Doesn't fuss, doesn't get on my nerves, and yet,"—a smile quirked the corners of his lips—"I'm very much afraid she gets quite a bit of her own way where her patients are concerned."

"She's quite wonderful," I agreed sedately.

"I agree with you," my father said. "However, I didn't call you in here to listen to praise of a nurse, but to let you know what has happened and to plan what is to be done next. Harry, I'll ask you to acquaint them with the latest developments concerning Jack Leslie, and our rather elaborate scheme for capturing him. You can tell it much better than I can, and I can conserve my strength the while. So—Harry!"

"We've located Leslie," he said, "and Leslie doesn't know he's been located."

I gave a little gasp of delighted astonishment, but Lillian, more used to concealing her emotions, made a matter-of-fact comment.

"I knew it was only a question of time," she said. "Who found him, and where is he?"

"One of the dozen men who have been trailing him," her husband replied. "But the best of it is that we're virtually sure he has no idea that we've discovered his hangout, or even that he's been trailed. He's dug into his hideout as if he meant to remain there indefinitely."

"Near here?" Lillian asked.

"About ten miles"

"Oh!" She sounded puzzled. "When we came down here, one of the men said that he was about five miles away."

"That was when he was scouting around," her husband said. "He's found a place ideal for him: A big farm on the bay about ten miles from here, with a level field where private airplanes used to land for a summer camp, with waterway open for boat communication, and with a house so surrounded by trees that it can be fortified."

I had listened with dismay to his description, and I could not keep from sounding a demurrer.

"Sounds terribly formidable," I said, and Harry Underwood shot a quick glance at me.

"That's just the catch," he said. "It's so formidable that he's underestimating the resources of the Chief and his determination. He's dug in, with the evident intention of waiting until he can make a successful foray on the farmhouse, and he doesn't dream that the Chief is planning to throw out a net with meshes he cannot possibly escape."

Hemlocks, firs, pines, spruce and yews may be moved now if well-watered, mulched and cared for until cold weather. Junipers, arbrovitaes, and the broad-leaved evergreens such as hollies, boxbushes and rhododendrons are better left until the spring. The deciduous trees and shrubs should always be left to be moved after the leaves fall.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

Marianne

WITH the advent of the fall and winter season and the important social functions it's bringing with it, probably most all of you will be looking for new formals. . . . If you like white for evening, I saw a beautiful gown of white net yesterday downtown that had a full skirt, crystal beaded girdle and narrow crystal shoulder straps finishing the ruffled bodice. . . . Or if you always feel "best-dressed" when wearing black, you'll be sure to like one that a local shop is showing now—it is highlighted with bright red, blue and green trim on the bodice, and these same colors form a bustle bow at the back of the waist and extend in a panel down the back of the full skirt. . . . And for something a little different and more colorful, you'll find a gown of blue flowered moire most delightful—the floral pattern is woven into the material with celanese rayon and cotton yarns (pink and navy on a light blue background). . . . The dress has a high waist with fitted midriff, and the front slim skirt flares to tremendous fullness in the back, where it is topped with a bustle bow.

BLACK AND RED is still an important combination for fall . . . A dressy frock I saw yesterday had a full skirt and fitted bodice with burnished red-gold sequin collar and pockets. . . . A two-piece wool dress combining red and black used white wool daisies with bright red centers to trim the round neckline, and a bright red wool belt added color to the waist.

* * *

Many of the smart new fall hats are using red and black to complement these dresses—there are velvets and felts with feather and velvet trim. . . . Fur is another important touch for fall hats—pointed fox, beaver, persian lamb and mink are those most frequently used. . . . Suede, antelope and rabbits' hair make smart sport hats. . . . And in case you'd like to have a hat just for one special dress, how about a little velvet turban that you can wrap around your head in any style that's becoming? These can be purchased at one of the stores in any color you may desire from rust and moss green, to navy, black or brown.

* * *

THEY'RE showing lots of suede purses this fall. . . . An attractive one I saw yesterday was bright red with a clear crystal top. . . . Another in moss green has a stitched trim and twisted grosgrain ribbon handle. . . . A triangular shaped bag of wine calf had a zipper opening on one side of the triangle, a ribbon handle and a flat bow trimming the front. . . . Do you always have trouble keeping track of the change in your purse? If so, you'll be very happy with the new coin purses that are now being shown with fitted metal containers for nickles, dimes, pennies and quarters, and a place for bills, too—these come in florentine leather as well as shades of green, blue, brown, red and black in both patent leather and calf. . . . Better have one, and end all the woes of searching frantically for the right change!

* * *

A GIFT FOR HIM: Since it isn't quite Christmas, you'll probably wish it were "his" birthday when you see the smart new line of men's toiletries that is now being shown. . . . There's shaving soap, talcum powder, pre-shave preparation, after-shave lotion, "spur" and "bridle path" colognes, hairdress, and soap. . . . The shaving soap comes in a wood container, and the other items in crockery jars—these are in shades of brown with double horses' heads in silver on top. . . . And the "spur" cologne comes in a white container with gold horses, while "bridle path" comes in a black holder with gold. . . . The soap is dubonnet in color with the horse-head motif raised on top. . . . All in all, it's a pretty smart line, and after one look, you just won't be able to resist buying one or two of the items.

AND IN CONCLUSION—"Tic-Tac-Toe" is the name of a tiny little suede lipstick kit designed by a famous French perfumer and fitted with three of his best-selling lipsticks—"Robin Hood" to lend dash to green, brown or grey costumes . . . "Dianthus," a vivid pink to be worn with light pastels and for evening . . . and "Corsair," which will highlight rich wines and deep blue tones. . . . Scarlett O'Hara is now decorating a cologne bottle, and her crystal skirt is filled with cologne in two fragrances—"Bittersweet" or "Flirt."

Numerous Events Swell Tuesday Calendar

Adult Education Part of Fall Program For A. A. U. W.

TUESDAY was a busy day for so many people that the only way to tell you about the events on one society page is to write about some of the affairs in a long story. Yesterday marked the opening of two study programs—one, that of the groups of the A. A. U. W., the other of the Child Study club.

Emphasis on adult education is the aim of the university women this year and last night the Literature group met with Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh, 589 Andover road, and planned to review novels, poetry and drama during the coming year. Mrs. Gladys Lane will give the program at the next meeting for which Miss Elizabeth Hauner, 62 Bartley avenue, will be hostess Oct. 10.

Visits to places of interest in the United States will occupy the Travel group, and speakers will be presented from time to time, it was decided last night when Mrs. George Ingram, Augustine avenue, entertained. Miss Virginia Stark, 417 Glessner avenue, will entertain Oct. 10.

There will be a routine business meeting for the sorority next Tuesday evening at the hotel.

MEET TOMORROW.

The three circles of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hobart Scattergood, 196 Park avenue west, instead of on Friday as was previously announced.

There was a session of the E-T club with Mrs. Albert Krum on Glessner avenue yesterday when 16 members attended. 'NUTRITION' TOPIC AT CLUB LUNCHEON

Dr. Weston A. Price, Cleveland Dental Surgeon, Addresses Joint Session at Westbrook; Charges Degeneration.

CHARGING that when the white man arrives, degeneration begins, Dr. Weston A. Price, Cleveland dental surgeon, spoke to a group of club women at Westbrook Country club yesterday on the subject, "Nutrition." Dr. Price talked at a joint luncheon session of the Conversational, Cosmopolitan, Journey, Round Table, Sappho, Sorosis, Tourist, Travelers, and Victorian clubs.

The dentist, author of "Nutrition and Physical Degeneration," told the audience of his work in the study of aborigines of Africa, Asia and South America, and his findings of perfect specimens among them. He contended that our refined foods are the cause of both tooth and bone decay.

Dr. Price believes that the world saw its highest culture from 1850 to 1900, and that by 1910 decadence had set in. He emphasized the fact that biological and physical decay of the race always precedes a general failure of the social and economic structures.

Mrs. E. R. Hartman arranged the program yesterday which was under the sponsorship of the Travelers club. Hostesses from other organizations were Mrs. J. C. Stout, Mrs. B. W. Forkner and Mrs. Harry Bowers, Tourist; Mrs. C. H. Huston and Mrs. L. A. Peck, Victorian; Mrs. Avery Hand, Round Table.

Rev. Kern Reads Home Ceremony For His Daughter

Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of the South Main Street Evangelical church, had the unusual experience Saturday of officiating at the marriage of his daughter, Ruth, and Archie Stevenson of Cleveland. Miss Kern and Mr. Stevenson were married at the Kern home, 240 South Main street.

The bride was attired in an olive green street length dress with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was composed of orchids. She was a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and had attended North Central college at Naperville, Ill.

Mr. Stevenson was graduated from Garfield high school in Cleveland, and is employed there by the Empire Sheet and Steel company. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson will make their home in Cleveland after Oct. 1.

PLAY BRIDGE.

Bridge was played at two tables yesterday evening when members of the Amigos club met at the home of Miss Evelyn Gongwer on Poplar street. Score prizes were won by the Misses Betty Koogle and Kitty Jane Birch. Miss Margaret Harold has invited the group to her home on Penn avenue for the next meeting, Oct. 10.

Not One Day . . . Nor Three . . . But EVERY DAY Is a Value Day At Siegenthaler's

Day-in, day-out the hundreds of style-wise, quality-minded men and women who come to Siegenthaler's find the true answer to economy in buying—

Economy in buying shoes is not represented by the price paid but is reflected in the long service and satisfaction one gets from wearing them—a price "saving" at the start may well be (and often is) a price "loss" in the end.
